PRESS CONFERENCE

Johnson Reveals Swift, New Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson announced Friday development by the United States of a new long-range military reconnaissance airplane he said would be the "most advanced in the world."

Johnson revealed development of the SR71 long-range strategic reconnaissance plane at his new conference.

He said the plane would fly more than three times the speed of sound at altitudes of more than 80,000 feet, and use the world's most advanced equipment for reconnaissance purposes.

Johnson said the aircraft development, part of a billion-dollar program, began in February, 1963, and the first plane will be operational early next year.

URGENT

He said "appropriate" members of Congress had been kept informed of the previously secret project.

The President said the plane would be used during periods when the United States might face hostile military forces, and in other situations.

He said the plane would give the United States worldwide reconnaissance, and is large enough to carry the kind of equipment needed for the job.

The President also announced at the news conference that the nation's farm exports reached an all-time high during the year ended June 30. He said total value of those exports was $6,151,000,000—an increase of 20 per cent during the year and 35 per cent higher than in 1960.

He said the trade surplus was more than $2 billion, which he termed "a substantial contribution" to the American economy.

Johnson said net farm income during the year was $12,518,000,000, almost one quarter of a billion higher than administrative officials estimated six months ago.

The net income per farm rose from $2,960 in 1960 to $3,504 in 1963, a rise of more than 18 per cent, he said.

The President also: —Firmly rejected French President Charles de Gaulle's new call for an international conference on Southeast Asia. He said the United States does not want "a conference called to ratify terror." In wide-ranging comment on points de Gaulle made at his Paris news conference Thursday, the President also rejected the idea

LBJ, Goldwater

Hold Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson and Republican presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater met for 16 minutes Friday and were reported to have agreed that they should avoid any heightening of racial tensions in their forthcoming election campaign.

Their first major election-year confrontation occurred at the White House at the Arizona senator's request. Goldwater took pains to keep out of the glare of publicity during his brief call on Johnson.

N.Y. Police Order Ban On Pickets

Marchers Plan To Demonstrate Today Regardless

NEW YORK (AP)—The riot-plagued police department Friday night issued a ban against an anti-police demonstration planned for today by a militant Harlem group and was quickly rebuffed by the organization.

Within minutes after Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy issued the ban, William Epton said his Harlem Defense Council would go ahead with the mass meeting. He said such a ban was unconstitutional.

Murphy said he issued the ban "in view of the tragic and unfortunate events of the last five days to preserve and improve the uneasy peace which now prevails."

BANS MEETINGS

He said it was the department's duty to ban any meetings or demonstrations it felt could "fan the fires of violence and disorder."

The organization had announced that it would conduct a "mock trial" of a white policeman whose shooting of a Negro teen-ager last week set off five nights of bloody riots in Harlem and parts of Brooklyn.

At the same time, Negro leaders met in a Harlem YWCA in an effort to harmonize the many voices of Negro groups in the city and put a permanent stop to racial violence.

Bayard Rustin, one of the Negro leaders attending the meeting, said it was his personal opinion that Murphy's ban against the demonstration would lead to "a disaster."

Rustin, who organized the Negro march on Washington D.C. last summer, said the order would lead to "the most vicious kind of behavior."

"People will march. It will be a disaster," he said.

"If Commissioner Murphy wants to help us he will suspend the officer, giving us an opportunity to go into the streets saying that there is no need to march because the officer has been suspended."

The officer, Lt. Thomas Gilligan, shot to death a 15-year-old Negro boy last week and the riots followed. Gilligan said he shot in self-defense.

Gilligan is on sick leave, but Murphy has refused to suspend him pending the outcome of a grand jury hearing of the case, now under way.

Meanwhile, some 100 steel-helmeted policemen, on foot and horseback, guarded Congress of Racial Equality pickets who marched in front of police headquarters, charging police brutality.

A similar demonstration Thursday night erupted in violence when some 1,500 white teen-agers tossed eggs, tin cans and other debris at the demonstrators.

The demonstration Friday night was billed as one that would attract CORE members from throughout the city, but rain apparently held the numbers down to a peak of about 300.

Mail From Abroad Favors Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's headquarters said Friday he is receiving 300 to 400 letters a week from abroad. A spokesman said most of the mail favored Goldwater's bid for president.

For example: —A man in Madrid invited Goldwater to stay in his home if he ever visits Spain.

—A doctor in Thailand urged a get-tough policy toward Communist China and asked, "What's wrong with America's guts, anyway?"

—A woman in Sweden said she had an autographed picture of the Republican nominee hanging in her home and now would like some campaign pins.

—A man in Dublin said he was for Goldwater because he did not want the world to become "a milk-sop Socialist paradise ruled by latter day Chamberlains and appeasers."

Over-all mail is pouring into Goldwater headquarters at a rate of about 10,000 pieces a day. Less than one per cent is from abroad, and many of these are from Americans overseas.

Senate Gets 'Police Force' In Wake Of Baker Hearings

McKeithen May Vote Goldwater

Predicts Senator Could Now Carry Louisiana Easily

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen, a lifelong Democrat, said Friday he wouldn't support Republican nominee Barry Goldwater for president, but it's possible he might vote for him.

Goldwater's vote against the civil rights bill and his reported stand in favor of a tidelands settlement with Louisiana were key factors, McKeithen told a news conference.

Right now, Goldwater "could carry this state going away," the governor said.

DELEGATION CHIEF

McKeithen, titular head of the Democratic Party in Louisiana and chairman of the delegation to the national convention in Atlantic City, N.J., said again he wasn't sure whether he would attend the convention now.

"I don't know what I would do when I got there," he said. McKeithen said it was possible the Mississippi and the Alabama delegations might be challenged or not seated at the convention and this could put pressure on Louisiana, too, not to take its seat.

When he visited President Johnson in Washington before he was sworn in as governor, McKeithen said, "I did not tell the President I would support him if he gave us the tidelands."

Goldwater, however, appears to be prepared "to turn the tidelands over to us," McKeithen said, based on a letter he said Charlton H. Lyons Sr., Shreveport, Louisiana Republican chairman, told about.

McKeithen said he hadn't heard from the Democratic administration and Goldwater's civil rights vote and his reported promise on the tidelands "puts tremendous pressure on Louisiana Democrats."

"Whatever Mr. Johnson does for us, we're likely to get before election. Our best bargaining position is now," McKeithen said.

Asked if he might vote for President Johnson, McKeithen replied, "It's possible, it's possible, but it would be awfully rough."

Area Woman Injured Fatally As Vehicles Hit

An 80-year-old Rayville woman died Friday afternoon in a local hospital from injuries received in a two-vehicle collision on Highway 15, about two and one-half miles south of Monroe.

Mrs. Mary Stokes, Rt. 3, Rayville, died in surgery at St. Francis Hospital shortly after the car she was a passenger in collided head-on with a pickup truck near the Tichell Road intersection about 3 p.m. Friday.

Herman Squires, driver of the car, was admitted to St. Francis Hospital with head and other possible injuries. His condition was not believed serious.

Admitted to Glenwood Hospital with reported chest and leg injuries, was Heaber Lambert, 40, of 707 DeLoach St., Monroe, driver of the pickup truck.

According to investigating state police, the Lambert truck was traveling south on Highway 15 behind two other vehicles. Police said he was attempting to pass when he saw the Squires vehicle, preceded by another vehicle, approaching him in the northbound lane. Lambert swerved his vehicle back into the right lane, went off the right shoulder, then skidded out of control across the highway into the path of the Squires vehicle, colliding head-on.

Lambert was ticketed for negligent homicide and reckless driving.

Parish Vote For School Board Today

Voters in six wards will go to polls to vote on candidates for seven seats on the Ouachita Parish School board in today's first Democratic primary election.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. A light turnout of voters is expected.

Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe is unopposed, but his name will appear on the ballot.

Six incumbents on the parish school board have opposition. Ward 10 voters will vote on two candidates since the ward is getting an additional member because of an increase in population. This will boost the board to 19 members, the same number as on the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

Candidates in the board races:

Ward 3's C. E. Buckley, 10 years a board member, is seeking re-election against Albert J. Kelly and W. T. McBroom.

In Ward 4, incumbent Marvin Shipp is seeking his third term against Arthur L. Finley and James T. Lee. Shipp has been on the board for 12 years.

Ward 5's Robert Rhone, completing his first 6-year term, has three opponents — Charles A. Guraedy, Dr. Edward G. Long and William Norris III.

In Ward 6, incumbent E. M. Finley — with 18 years on the board — is running for his fourth term against Dale C. Meachum and William H. Ray.

Three opponents are running against incumbent Chester P. Holloway in Ward 7. Holloway, a two-term member, faces J. T. Franks, Thomas W. Golsen and Miss Happy McDonald.

Ward 10, meantime, will elect two members from a field of six candidates, including incumbent A. L. Smith, who is completing his first term.

Smith is running with Robert C. Ellen Jr., Milton W. Ford, Wiley J. Gates, Fred Henry, and H. W. Tolson.

Some 29,543 Democrats are registered in Ouachita Parish.

Judge To Give Elector Ruling

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dist. Judge Fred Blanche Jr. said he would rule at 10 a.m. Saturday on a taxpayers' suit attacking constitutionality of the way Louisiana presidential electors are chosen.

"My mind is just about made up," he said at the close of Friday's testimony, "but I want to put it in writing."

VERDICT NOT REACHED

Hoffa Fraud Trial In Jurors' Hands

CHICAGO (AP) — A jury of eight men and four women deliberating the fate of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa and six codefendants in a $20-million mail fraud and conspiracy case retired at 9 o'clock Friday night without reaching a verdict.

The jury was taken to hotel accommodations at the Great Lakes Naval Station for the night.

Judge Richard B. Austin said the jurors will convene today at 9:30 a.m. and will continue deliberating until 4:30 p.m., unless a decision is reached.

The U.S. District Court jury received the case at 4:45 p.m.

LATE CHANGE

A last-minute change was made in the composition of the jury when Judge Richard B. Austin excused Rayford Lee, 62, a Negro union member who works as a checker at International Harvester Co.

The court was informed that Lee's 92-year-old mother had suffered a fractured hip in a fall at her home.

After a discussion involving Judge Austin and attorneys from both sides, it was agreed that one of four alternates would join the 11 other regular jurors to deliberate the case.

The alternate moved into Lee's place was Lawrence Miller, 60, is a utility man for the American Can Co., a member of United Steelworkers of America and a former member of the Teamsters Union.

The jury change was made after Judge Austin had finished instructing the jurors on the law in the case. During the instruction, courtroom doors were guarded and no one permitted to enter or leave.

Area Showers Possible Today

A weekend of partly cloudy skies with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunder-showers is forecast for the Monroe area.

A high of 96 was recorded at the FFA weather station at the Monroe Municipal Airport Friday, with a low of 68. More of the same is slated today with a high of 96 and a low of 68 to 74 tonight.

No rain was recorded at the station Friday although there were reports of light showers in parts of the area.

Winds today will be variable 5 to 15 m.p.h.

'HOLDING POWER' RISES

Cities Progressing In Halting Dropouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association said Friday the 128 biggest cities have made progress in stemming school dropouts but "they still have a long way to go."

Since 1960, the NEA said, the "holding power" of the large city school systems has risen 2.5 per cent compared with a national increase of 1.6 per cent.

Two-thirds of the school systems showed gains during the four-year period 1960 through 1963.

The NEA study said that the holding power rate of the 1963 class of the combined school systems stood at 70.8 per cent. The national average was 76 per cent.

Holding power was defined as

Okays Panel To Prescribe Punishments

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Senate Friday acted to police itself in the wake of the Bobby Baker case by creating a bi-partisan panel empowered to recommend disciplinary action for any senators found guilty of wrongdoing.

By a 50 to 33 vote, the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., that would set up a six-member special committee to conduct investigations and recommend penalties for any breaches of ethical conduct by members.

SURPRISE ACTION

The surprise action came as the Senate launched a free-wheeling debate, with strong pre-campaign overtones, on two resolutions recommended by its rules committee.

The resolutions dealing with the sticky issues of financial disclosure and investigation of members' activities were the outgrowth of the panel's seventh-month inquiry into the outside business ventures of Baker, one-time secretary to Senate Democrats.

The Senate later affirmed the action on the Cooper proposal by approving, 61 to 19, the committee resolution which by then included the Cooper rider.

Rules Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., urged defeat of the Cooper plan, telling the Senate: "If you want to go ahead and set up a police force in the Senate to police ourselves, go ahead and do it. I don't think we need it."

Under the Cooper plan, a six-member special committee, made up of three Democrats and three Republicans, would have the task of investigating any violations of Senate rules by members, officers or employees of the Senate.

PERMANENT GROUP

In effect, it would be a permanent group of veteran senators who would take over this self-policing chore, instead of giving the rules committee jurisdiction in this area.

After this soul-racking experience, the Senate decided to put off any action until next week on the second resolution—one requiring members and top employees to make public their major outside financial interests.

Under that resolution, members and Senate employees making salaries of $10,000 or more a year would be required to make public any stocks or investments in a statement amounting to 50 per cent or more of their annual congressional pay.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he would offer a plan to bypass the disclosure issue by appointing a commission to study and make recommendations about financial disclosure, including personal finances of executive branch personnel as well as lawmakers.

The oratory started when Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., accused the Democratic-dominated rules group of helping to mask the "ill gotten gains" of Baker, the one-time Senate employee who resigned under fire last October.

Is it true that students in the speech department at Ouachita Parish High School were penalized points for not contributing to a fund to purchase a fan and also were they awarded points for tickets sold to a play? OPHS Principal S. T. Howell says the answer to the first part of the question is "definitely not," explaining that, "Students through their class officers, often are allowed to make voluntary contributions for securing minor classroom needs."

"Any contribution made is strictly on a voluntary basis, there is no compulsion, no penalties of any sort and contributions or the lack of them certainly don't enter into grading."

On the question's second part, Howell explains that, "The senior play is an official part of the speech department program and every speech student is required as a part of the program to take part in the play in some way, not necessarily as a player."

"Some may make scenery or sell tickets or handle some other phase of the activity. This is an accepted practice, students are not forced into it and it can in no way reduce their grades. It is instead an opportunity to improve grades."

"Students' grades are not dependent on their participation in the senior play and though they can earn extra points for the work, they cannot lose points."

How did the Cow Palace in San Francisco get its name?

This nickname was attached to the building by a newspaper article while the construction plans were still being debated. The structure was a controversial WPA project during the depression and arguments both for and against it were raging. The purpose of the huge Quonset-type building was to be for agricultural expositions and livestock shows. The San Francisco News denounced the idea, saying that it was ridiculous to build a magnificent structure for cows while people still lived in slums. The headline contained the term "cow palace" and since then the building has been known by no other name. In 1949, the California Legislature, deciding that the building was losing money housing just agricultural exhibits, amended the law to permit all types of entertainment to be brought there.

How long does the present Cheniere Lake Commission serve? Will a public announcement be made when their term expires?

A. S. Tidwell, commission chairman, said all seven members of the Cheniere Lake Commission serve three-year terms, but these terms are staggered. Three of the men will reach the end of their terms in the early summer of 1965. No announcement is made when members' terms expire. The Commission votes on its new members, then makes a recommendation to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury. The Police Jury officially appoints new members during its regular meeting.

Who are Louisiana's delegates and alternates to the National Democratic Convention? If some of the delegates should decide not to attend, how will they be replaced and who will replace them?

Louisiana's delegates to the Democratic National Convention are selected by the State Democratic Central Committee. A list of the delegates and alternates has been published in the Morning World and will be published again prior to the convention. In case any delegate drops out, he can be replaced with the consent of the committee. It should be noted that being a delegate to a national convention is simply an honorary matter since they go at their own expense with no state funds involved.

Who is supposed to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery?

Any member of the Armed Forces of the United States who dies in active service, or any former member whose last active service terminated honorably may be buried in Arlington.

What means of identification can a person obtain, other than a driver's license, to enable him to have a personal check cashed?

The driver's license is the most often - used identification, but sometimes Armed Forces identification cards of members or dependents, company affiliation identification cards or social security cards are acceptable, as well as a variety of others.

If a World War I veteran draws $165 for monthly disability compensation, what part is allotted for his wife's support?

According to Fred Ragland, Ouachita Parish service officer, the veteran is actually allotted $149 and the additional $16 is to contribute to the support of his wife if he is living with her. If the veteran and his wife are not living together, or if the veteran does not support his wife, she can ask for an apportionment which could possibly entitle her to more than the original $16.

State Senate Redistricting Group Named

Sen. Charles Brown of Tallulah and Rep. Benny Christian of Rayville will represent the Fifth District on a legislative committee that will begin drafting a reapportionment plan for the Louisiana Senate Tuesday in Baton Rouge.

The 10 a.m. Tuesday meeting at the capitol will be the first for the committee, appointed by Lt. Gov. C. C. (Taddy) Aycock and House Speaker Vail M. Deloney of Lake Providence.

Christian was one of only two House members named to the committee. The other is Rep. Warren Simon of Vermillion Parish.

Named from the Senate were Sen. Adrain Duplantier, New Orleans, 1st district; Sen. Jules Mollere, Metairie, 2nd district; Sen. Dudley LeBlanc, Abbeville, 3rd district; Sen. Danny Moore, Homer, 4th district; Brown of the 5th; Sen. H. M. Kimball, Margitoun, 6th; Sen. A. C. Clemmons, Jennings, 7th; and Sen. W. L. Rambo, Georgetown, 8th.

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be reapportioned on the basis of population. The Louisiana House of Representatives in 1963 but not the Senate.

In the past legislative session, all redistricting bills failed and Gov. John McKeithen hinted he might include the problem in his call for a special session after September.

Meanwhile, an administration leader, Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe, said the governor was organizing an economy committee of legislators to study means of cutting expenditures.

Adcock, a member of the committee, said, "This will be the governor's pet."

On other legislative committees, Delony named Rep. S. S. DeWitt of Newellton to serve on the Un-American Activities Committee and Rep. Edgar Lancaster, Tallulah was named to the committee on rules of procedure for administrative agencies.

Lancaster, an attorney, also serves on the legislative council.

Battle Of Longs To Spice Voting

By JIMMY HATTEN
State Editor

School board races will add flavor for voters in today's Democratic primary, but the real spice will be the battle between Rep. Gillis Long and challenger Speedy Long, a distant cousin, in the Eighth District.

Parishes included in the Northeast Louisiana area that will vote between the two are LaSalle and Winn. Also in that district, five hopefuls have entered the board of education race.

They are T. L. Berry of Leesville, W. K. Brown, Grant Parish state representative, Fred Tannehill of Pineville and Paul Foshee and Harry "Rags" Turpin, both of Natchitoches.

Approximately 100,000 voters are eligible to cast their votes in the Eighth District races. Waiting in the wings to take on the winner of the representative's race is William S. Walker of Winnfield, a Republican.

Here is a parish by parish breakdown of the school board races:

LaSalle — ward seven, O. O. Chapman, J. W. Lee and J. Fount Price; ward six, Aubrey A. Paul, Harvey Clark and H. V. Deason; ward five, Harvey Bradford, incumbent, and Cecil "Pete" Allen and Donald R. Cooper.

Judy Garland's Show Stopper Brings On Joy

LONDON (UPI) — Judy Garland, whose singing career seemed all but over when she was jeered at an Australian concert last month, was "overwhelmed with joy" early Friday by her show-stopping comeback at the Palladium Theatre.

Only three hours out of a rest home and in defiance of her doctor's orders Judy sang "Over the Rainbow" and won a cheering ovation believed to have topped the acclaim ever given any other performer at the famed Palladium.

After her fiasco in Melbourne Judy suffered a nervous collapse in Hong Kong and hinted that her days as a singer were over.

Letter Carriers To Call Off Strike

LONDON (AP)—A nationwide strike of 120,000 British mailmen was called off Friday night, 30 hours before it was due to begin.

The union dropped a ban on overtime and agreed to continue negotiations with the government about pay.

The decision to call off the strike was reached after a three-hour meeting of the union's executive. Union leader Ron Smith said a basis for negotiation had been found.

Although it was rumored the government was ready to increase its initial offer of a 4 per cent wage increase to 7 per cent, Smith said his executive had not yet discussed figures.

There has been trouble between Postmaster General Reginald Bevins and the mailmen for more than six months. The men want a 10 per cent increase in their basic average wage of $33.80 weekly.

Union leaders found it increasingly difficult to keep their men in line. Wildcat strikes, which broke out in sorting offices up and down the country, started a massive pile-up of mail which may yet take many days to clear.

Parish Officers Probe Burglary At Fink Home

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department is investigating the burglary of a home on Fink's Hideaway Road, reported Friday morning by Mrs. Herbert Fink.

Mrs. Fink told investigating deputies that her home was burglarized of a .38 caliber pistol and a 23 inch television while she was taking her son to school. This was sometime between 6:45 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. Friday, she reported.

Investigators said tire tracks were visible in the rain settled dust that probably were left by the burglar's vehicle.

In other police action, Monroe police booked Elmo Evans, 28, of 700 Adams St., on two counts of aggravated battery after his arrest at 1:15 a.m. Friday. Henry Mason Willis, Rt. 1, Columbia, was booked on a simple battery charge after his arrest on a warrant by the Caldwell sheriff's department. The warrant was issued by the Monroe police department.

Sammy Gaddis, 17, of 59A Roy Dr., Monroe, was booked by Monroe police on a charge of burglary after his arrest at 4:10 p.m. Friday. The charge involved the theft of a clock radio from the home of Herbert Riley at 47A Texas Ave., Thursday night.

Monroe authorities also booked Allen E. Jones, 20, of 4010 Pippin St., on an aggravated battery charge.

West Monroe police booked Henry C. Salley, 45, of 710 Stella St., West Monroe, on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his arrest at Cypress and Bridge streets at 12:34 a.m. Friday.

LBJ Urges Labor To Aid Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson urged the top leaders of organized labor Friday—as he did top business leaders Thursday—to throw their weight behind enforcement of the new civil rights Act.

Johnson, meeting with some 280 labor leaders at the White House following his televised news conference, raised the specter of the Depression of the 1930s in urging cooperation from labor to keep the economy strong and prevent civil rights disturbances.

"America's labor movement won its great strength and freedom, and respect through the law," he said. "You who pursued that long struggle can serve your country and your cause now by urging your communities to trust the law of the land and help it to prevail."

Johnson repeated his pledge of Thursday that he would work to insure that every person enjoys his full rights as an American citizen.

"I intend to use all the sources I have to make sure those who claim rights—and those who deny them—bend their beliefs to peaceful obedience of the law of the land," he said.

Most of his speech Friday was devoted to a review of the accomplishments of the past three years in industry and business.

"We can view the record through business eyes or the eyes of labor," Johnson said. "Either way, the record of the past 41 months is the best American eyes have ever beheld."

"For 41 consecutive months, we have enjoyed the longest and largest peacetime expansion in our history."

Johnson said he wanted to preserve this prosperity "by relying on cooperation, not experimenting with compulsion."

"I want to continue it and we shall—by trusting our tradition of compassion, not by toying with the expedients of coercion," he added.

"I remember—and you have not forgotten—other days when American men, old and young, were idle in the streets. They had no homes—no help—no hope."

In this period—an obvious reference to the Depression of the 1930s—Johnson said the nation made a basic national choice:

"We chose compassion. We put our faith in man—in the dignity and the decency of individual man. We committed our system, then and there, to offer jobs for the jobless, not jobs; provide homes for the homeless, not hate; give love for the children, not lectures."

Today, although times are good, Johnson said "all through our society there are signs and signals which tell us we cannot be complacent or callous."

Although there were more Americans than ever before "at the top of the ladder," Johnson said at the bottom of the ladder were "far more than we can tolerate. We want to help them move up."

Officials Press For Peace In Singapore's Racial Riots

SINGAPORE (AP)—Officials of this strategic Malaysian city-state pressed a campaign Saturday for peace between Singapore Chinese and Malays, antagonists in four days of racial riots that have left 19 dead and 451 injured.

Bloodshed appeared to be ebbing even as Deputy Premier Toh Chin Chye and culture Minister S. Rajaratnam launched the campaign with an appeal in the main Chinese section.

"Stop this madness while there is still time!" they cried.

Sound trucks reiterated the call for peace throughout the 15 districts worst hit by the communal strife that erupted Tuesday during a street procession of 25,000 Moslem Malays in honor of the prophet Mohammed. Malay and Chinese headmen of various communities were reported to have agreed on temporary arrangements—their exact nature undisclosed—to stem the hostilities.

The government sought to establish in each district a 10-man peace patrol, each reflecting the district's racial makeup, to curb agitators and help police and troops, now totaling 7,000, restore law and order.

A morning break in the curfew Friday to let people buy food was marked by more than a dozen clashes. But soldiers and police quickly intervened. They herded stragglers off the streets at gunpoint. Hours later, another break in the curfew came off without incident.

Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew called the situation much better.

In Kuala Lumpur, acting Malaysian Prime Minister Abdul Razak was similarly optimistic. He said the situation was much improved.

Razak is acting as the government's chief during the absence in Washington of prime Minister Abdul Rahman, who has charged that Indonesia fomented the riots as part of its campaign to crush Malaysia.

Jakarta propagandists for President Sukarno's Indonesian government sought to make political capital of the racial strife.

The Indonesian Herald, which normally reflects Foreign Ministry views, declared full responsibility rested on the government of premier Lee, a Chinese.

Johnson And Chameleon

Charges have been made that President Johnson, in his transition from United States Senator to President, did a quick-change act on the question of integration that would put a chameleon to shame. He has been accused of becoming a turncoat by changing from a segregationist to an integrationist. This is true, but it is not all. Johnson did not simply do a one-time shift but took both sides at the same time while he was running for Senator from Texas and for Vice-President of the United States.

A chameleon is a sort of lizard that is noted for its quick changes in color. It not only changes color according to its moods but according to its surroundings. If it is in a cluster of green leaves, it will turn green. If its surroundings are brown, it becomes brown. Many believe it should have been a politician because its quick changes in color match the quick changes in positions of some politicians, who, with no real convictions of their own, try to match their audiences by saying what they think the listeners want to hear.

A frequent contributor to Views of Our Readers, which runs Sundays on the editorial page of the Monroe Morning World, did some delving into President Johnson's chameleon-like changes. During the time Johnson was running both for the Senate and the Vice-Presidency these changes came almost as rapidly as the clicking of a movie camera shutter.

On various issues, his views as a candidate for Senator and as a candidate for Vice-President, at the same time, are given with his senatorial views shown first and his vice-presidential views shown second. They follow:

"Civil rights" demonstrations: Called for "enforcement of laws designed to protect private property . . . from physical occupation;"

avored "civil rights" demonstrations, particularly the sit-ins.

Right-to-work laws: Heartily endorsed the Texas state right-to-work law as "necessary for the prosperity of the state and for the free-enterprise system; supported a national law which would repeal and prohibit all state-passed right-to-work laws.

Tax loopholes: Promised "retention of the present oil and gas depletion allowance;" called for an end to such "tax loopholes as depletion allowances" for oil and gas men.

School desegregation: Pledged "to protect the decisions of the people of local school districts in the operation and control of their schools." Upheld the right of the federal government to use United States troops to force integration of schools.

Medicare: Called the medicare program a "socialist proposal" and supported the alternative Kerr-Mills plan, which allows the state more participation: Favored a program of medical care for the aged, financed through the social security system.

Federal aid to education: Opposed "the entry of the federal government into the field of general public education;" strongly supported all forms of federal aid to education.

Government power: Denounced "federal encroachment" and opposed "the growing and menacing concentration of power in central government;" endorsed programs which would have directly centralized more power in the hands of the federal government.

Where does this man stand? Summing up what a man represents when he is "all things to all men," one unpolished commenter said: "And he don't mean nothin' to nobody."

How Is Our Medicine?

Worldwide talk of socialized medicine and attempts of the last two national Democratic administrations in the United States to impose socialized medical practice on the people of this country have led many Americans with inquiring minds to wonder just how the United States compares with other countries in medical advancement and what part the federal government has played in this advancement.

It has been charged that the country's prescription drug industry has done little on its own hook to find and perfect new and valuable drugs and has been largely content to let that work be done abroad. This is directly contradicted by fact and figures.

Some time ago, Dr. Austin Smith, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, presented some of these facts and figures to the House of Representatives' select committee on government research.

During the 1941-1962 period the drug industry throughout the world introduced 570 basic new drug prescriptions. Three-fifths of these were produced in the United States. Of these, the industry discovered 93 per cent, while government and institutional laboratories accounted for seven per cent. Later he presented additional information to the House subcommittee on intergovernmental relations showing that 90 per cent of 365 new basic drugs introduced in this country since 1941 came from the pharmaceutical industry as against nine per cent from universities and one per cent from the federal government.

That appears to scotch effectively any claim that the United States drug industry has been derelict in seeking new remedies for the ills that plague mankind. On the contrary, it leads the world in this by a wide margin.

One thing that mystifies some people in the United States is the wide crevasse that seems to exist between medical research men, now shown by the figures above to be mostly in the employ of the drug industry, and general practitioners and specialists throughout the country. Failure to discover a positive cure for cancer, in more than 50 years of research, has led some to believe the American Medical Association might perform a valuable service by asking widespread experimentation with medicines known to be harmless and possibly having the potential for curing this second most-deadly ailment.

It appears that the drug industry is going about as far as is humanly possible to do in its search for cures of such ailments as cancer and heart trouble.

The heart of medical progress lies in research, along with practical experimentation, particularly basic research, which amounts to an effort to enter the unknown and push forward toward the stubborn frontiers of knowledge. According to Dr. Smith, the drug industry devotes a larger portion of its aggregate research budget to fundamental study than does any other industry.

Extreme and rigid government regulatory measures, such as those provided in the ill-advised legislation which took the decision on medicinal values away from the medical and drug professions and placed it in the hands of the unqualified Food and Drug Administration, are now going a long way toward undermining and endangering medical research, which, at best, is often frustrating.

The tragedy of this is that the heaviest burden of thwarted research falls on the frail shoulders of sufferers from disease—the living and those not yet born. This, alone, should be enough to make the Congress of the United States act to undo the harm it has done by enacting strangulating medical control legislation.

The Torch Of Terror

BASCOM TIMMONS

President Johnson Faces His Busiest Schedule Yet

JOHNSON'S BUSY SCHEDULE — President Johnson faces the busiest schedule he has yet had in his strenuous eight months as President before the convening of the Democratic National Convention, which is less than a month away. He has asked Congress to pass a heavy program of legislative measures in that time, and some of them are going to take a great deal of his time and his arts of persuasion. The Viet Nam situation also would take a lot of his time. He will see heads of foreign States. He must make decisions on positions the party is to take in its platform, and give thought to who his running mate will be. The President seems to be in top physical condition and thrive on hard work.

50-STATE CAMPAIGN — How to campaign for 50 States is a question being worked out by both major political parties. Both Democratic and Republican headquarters emphasize that they do not concede any State to the other. Some things are evident: There will be no TV debates such as held between Kennedy and Nixon in 1960. Neither President Johnson nor Senator Goldwater will try to hit the campaign trail as Kennedy and Nixon did. Representative William E. Miller, Republican Vice Presidential nominee, is likely to campaign in every State in the Union, so may President Johnson's second spot man. Goldwater probably will make his greatest effort in California, probably spending at least a week there. GOP belief is that if Goldwater can take California he can take the election. Both parties are already talking of the difficulty of raising necessary campaign funds, but both apparently will have ample.

V. P. POSSIBILITIES — Name of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as possible Vice Presidential running mate of President Johnson is seldom heard any more. Ditto for Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps Director. Also apparent ly losing ground is Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota. Delegates call Humphrey a "used up" man politically as a result of his poor showing against John F. Kennedy in 1960 primaries. Most interest of Democratic politicians is 38 year old Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. Answer to his youth is that Democrats once nominated 36-year old William Jennings Bryan for President. Man most Democratic politicians now pick is Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota. President Johnson who will choose his ticket-mate, is saying nothing, and no one pretends to know what his final decision will be.

JOHNSON CABINET — Look for President Johnson to put a Texan, maybe two of them, in his Cabinet if he is the November winner. Selection could come out of these three: Robert Anderson, Secretary of the Treasury in Eisenhower administration, Secretary of State; Governor John Connally, Secretary of Defense, and Leon Jaworski, prominent Houston lawyer, attorney general. It would not be surprising if Johnson, if re-elected, would transfer Secretary of Defense McNamara to the post of Secretary of the Treasury.

SURROUNDED NEW MEXICO — One of the most hotly contested and doubtful State will be New Mexico, despite the fact that it has only 4 electoral votes. But it is wedged in between Texas and Arizona, which are furnishing the 1964 major party Presidential candidates, and it has close ties with each State. It came into the Union at the same time Arizona did. It has had many close Presidential races. This was especially true in the two closest Presidential races of modern times. In 1916 President Woodrow Wilson carried it over Charles Evans Hughes by 2,000 votes. In 1960 John F. Kennedy took it from Richard M. Nixon by less than 3,000 votes.

ALABAMA G. O. P. — Alabama Republicans believe that they will elect at least four of the State's eight members of the House of Representatives in November. G. O. P. claims are based on the 1962 Senatorial election when veteran Senator Lister Hill squeaked through by a 5,000-vote margin over his Republican opponent. Failure of Alabama legislature to redistrict makes it necessary for all Alabama members of Congress to run Statewide. One reason for the precarious outlook for the Democrats in Alabama is that electors who would have supported the nominees of the Democratic National Convention at Atlantic City were defeated by unpledged electors. Withdrawal of Governor George C. Wallace as a third party candidate leaves these electors without a candidate and Senator Goldwater is believed as of now to be the likely victor there in November. If so he would be the first Republican to carry that State since Reconstruction.

FOREIGN POLICY STRESS — Senators who have talked to Senator Barry Goldwater the Republican Presidential nominee, since his return to Washington from San Francisco, feel sure that his major stress in the campaign will be on foreign policy. Goldwater is represented as feeling that the Administration is most vulnerable on South Vietnam, Cuba and elsewhere in the foreign policy field.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Extremism Often May Be Helpful

IF THE BOOK of Ecclesiastes is to be taken seriously, then there is a time for everything. If this is not a time to dance, certainly it is one to plant—to put into the political soil some definitions which stand up under examination and do not become dirty words in the controversy of our times.

In the past years, a passionate effort has been made to equate "extremism" and "conservatism." No one has bothered to define either word, but to hear some of the orators at the Republican wing-ding in San Francisco, one of the distinguishing signs of both the extremist and the conservative is a belief that the problems besetting this nation can be solved by men of good will and sound principle. Not so, say the liberal pundits. Our world has grown so complex that only a candidate under contract to Eighteenth Century-Fox could possibly believe that the world can do more than to make chaos a little more orderly. Those who insist otherwise, the pundits add, are either naive conservatives or extremist rogues.

IF WE ARE to arrive at a definition of the terms now bandied about, we can only do so by looking at the use made of them. Accept, then, the thesis that a belief in the possibility of finding answers to our time's various plagues is a sign of extremism. Senator Goldwater holds that we need not resign ourselves to a "no policy" approach—and this gives us a start.

To say that there are solutions, that complexity need not lead us to abdication of our God-given powers of reason, would be a view eschewed by the liberals. But is it? Or is it an excuse for inaction?

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, who was praised mightily by the pundits for her "moderation" — as opposed to Mr. Goldwater's "extremism"—had a few words to say on this subject this week.

"It has become the political vogue to piously and righteously conclude with a pose of superior sagacity that there are no simple and easy answers — and because there are not, we need not have a sense of urgency in seeking answers and making decisions," Mrs. Smith told the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"In this vogue of self-deception and procrastination, the timid and the procrastinators quickly and loudly condemn those with a sense of urgency and decisiveness as irresponsible and reckless.

"The end result has been a tragic lack of clearcut national objectives and national strategy."

THIS SOUNDS like a defense of Barry Goldwater against charges from the left that he is "reckless" because he calls for a solution to the problem of Cuba, of Vietnam, of Berlin, of the dangerous drain of U. S. gold reserves, of farm surpluses. This insistence has encouraged his opposition to charge that he will lead us into World War III. But Senator Smith, looking at the world not as a partisan but as a sensible and cautious woman, says precisely what Senator Goldwater has said — and in almost the same terms.

Does this make her an extremist conservative? Not even the most doctrinaire journals or their most frenzied pundits would make this accusation. Does it make Senator Goldwater a "moderate." The answer would seem to be "yes" — but only if the word had meaning. In actuality, the most extreme and immoderate words and actions at the Republican convention came from the "moderates." Over the years, the liberals have been the ones to take all-or-nothing positions and to insist that only the complete extinction of the "extremists" could usher in an era of moderation.

If an election year is no time to define terms, then certainly there should be a moratorium on the use of meaningless words, which simply inflame people. The idea that offering solutions is a sign of extremism is, on its face, ridiculous.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Goldwater Isn't Really Like Ike

I DO WISH SENATOR Goldwater would discontinue identifying his policies as a replica of those of General Dwight Eisenhower. One must be mainly about that kind of thing, the first time or two it happens, given the exigencies of political ritual. It is altogether necessary, to appease the gods of protocol, to refer to all one's predecessors as great national heroes, however great one's differences with them. (Nothing so struck one's sense of piquancy as Adlai Stevenson praising Harry Truman, and vice versa.) In politics it is an iron law that all candidates must be referred to in terms appropriate only to the rising sun, the aurora borealis, and the hanging gardens of Babylon. So okay, one should expect that Senator Goldwater will pay General Eisenhower his ritual due. But he seems — inadvertently let us hope — to be doing something more.

"Asked for comment on criticism that his nomination had drawn from some European newspapers," a recent newspaper dispatch reported, "Mr. Goldwater said: 'I think they have misunderstood my position. My position is exactly the same as Ike Eisenhower's — and they got along well with him.'"

LET'S FACE IT, Goldwater's position on foreign affairs is the same as Eisenhower's only in the sense that Walter Reuther's views on domestic policy can be said to be the same as the National Association of Manufacturers'. In the latter case, both can be said to be in favor of capitalism. And both Eisenhower and Goldwater are anti-Communist. But so, for that matter, is Lyndon Johnson. Plotted on the operative political ledger, it is the differences that matter, not the similarities. Military historians of the First World War are not concerned over the similarity of the great armies' positions on Central Asia, but give much attention to their heated differences of opinion over who should occupy the forest of Verdun. If Senator Goldwater really thinks that he has no differences with Eisenhower on foreign policy, he should have tried to get those delegates in San Francisco to endorse the General's record on foreign policy during 1952-1960.

WHAT CAN THE Senator achieve, anyway, by such evasiveness? Is there a single European correspondent who, having read The Conscience of a Conservative and Why Not Victory?, would hesitate for a moment to conclude that Goldwater's foreign policy would be substantially different from that of the author of the Spirits of Geneva and Camp David, who once bemoaned his inability to persuade Marshal Zhukov of the superiority of the Western over the Communist system, and who on another occasion expressed it as his firm conviction that the Soviet Union desires peace every bit as fervently as the West does? Would Goldwater have sat back at Suez and allowed a bel-licose neutralist to take control of the wind pipe of the near East to further his rabid pan-Arabism? Would Goldwater have sat frozen in indecision when the tanks marched into Budapest? Would he have concluded a peace treaty over Korea that denied us the goals which even the United Nations had legitimized? Would he have encouraged brisk cultural, educational and economic exchanges with a power that has, as Senator Goldwater tirelessly reminds us, committed itself to exploiting all the amenities of civilization in order to press the revolutionary advantage?

PRECISELY SENATOR Goldwater's popularity among the voters, such as it is, rests on the conviction that things would be otherwise if he were President of the United States, that the Soviet Union, coming upon an iron resolution, would desist from attempting fresh salients in the Caribbean, in Indo-China, in Central West Africa, in South America. Goldwater is going to continue to be despised by most of Europe for the profoundest of reasons, namely, that Europe is not sure enough of itself to know whether it desires to survive as a civilization — its desire to survive is that of a disembodied organism giving way to the instinct to live; not because life means anything beyond biological survival. Goldwater, then, will be despised because he is the first voice in the world's political center who is suggesting, implicitly, that life has no meaning in separation from certain ideals. John Foster Dulles — although unsuccessful as the architect of a foreign policy largely, one supposes, because of the diminished understanding of his boss — stood on roughly the same ground, and was, again, widely despised by the same Europe that depended so heavily on his adamant strength of will to survive at all. Goldwater shouldn't hope to win the election in Europe, because he hasn't got a chance. And his chance to win it here depends precisely on establishing the very great differences between his approach to foreign policy, and that of his genial, and benumbed, predecessor.

He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Carolyn Gilstrap, and nephew, J. Herbert Walker, both of Monroe; two brothers, Clyde and Ford Bennett, both of Mont Eagle, Tenn.; and a sister, Mrs. Vera Lumpkin, Corbin, Kentucky.

De Gaulle Calm Over Reaction By Washington

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is undismayed by Washington's hostile reaction to his "peace and neutralization" plan for Southeast Asia, French government sources said Friday.

They said he remains determined to push his three-point program calling for a new Geneva conference, a non-interference pledge by the United States, Russia, Red China and France, and a massive foreign economic and technical aid plan for the former Indochina states.

The sources said De Gaulle still is convinced that a negotiated settlement and neutralization are the only possible solutions for the fighting in Viet Nam, short of "escalation" up to the point of risking a world war.

They said he believes the United States will be readier to listen to his arguments after the November presidential election.

De Gaulle put forward his Southeast Asia program at a news conference Thursday. He also took West Germany sharply to task for not supporting his European political unity plan based on a loose federation of independent states and for allegedly failing to give France global foreign policy support.

In Bonn, Foreign Minister

Gerhard Schroeder was quoted as saying the French-German treaty of January, 1963, was not concluded simply in order that West Germany should adopt France's foreign policy.

Moro Conducts

First Meeting Of 2-Day Cabinet

ROME (UPI) — Premier Aldo Moro Friday called the first cabinet meeting of his two-day old government to handle several ministerial appointments and the designation of undersecretaries.

Following the one-hour meeting, the list of undersecretaries in the new center-left government was announced. The lineup by parties was the same as Moro's first government, which fell June 26. There were 26 Christian Democrats, 10 Socialists, five Social Democrats and one Republican.

Gov. McKeithen, Sen. Ellender To Speak Here

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John J. McKeithen and Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., will speak in Monroe Aug. 28 at the fourth annual Louisiana cotton forum.

McKeithen will discuss the importance of cotton to the economy of Louisiana, and Ellender will talk on the cotton legislative situation.

The forum is designed to examine the problems and prospects for the future of the cotton industry.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD

Richard Burton is suffering from such painful urticaria it causes him to feel faint, and as it worsened in the past few days he was unable to move his neck during his towering "Hamlet" performance. When he failed to finish in the play the other night, Broadway was swept with the rumor that he had left the theatre because he was upset over a bomb warning. (As if any actor playing Hamlet could be chased off the stage by a bomb!) . . . The Brigitte Bardot sizzler, "Contempt," has been selected as the opener for the Montreal Film Festival on August 7, but so far the New York State censors have refused to pass it. The case is currently in litigation. It must make our neighbors up North laugh a little. Wonder what we're being protected from?

The same British firm that sold 500 buses to Castro is now selling more of the same to Red China . . . Bobby Baker, getting away from Washington for a few days, has been making the rounds of the New York places, recognized by very few, despite his seasons in the sun of newspaper, magazine and TV coverage . . . Haley Mills, just turned 18, now gets $280,000 a picture. . . Although "To Broadway With Love," the big World's Fair musical, reduced its cast drastically and slashed expenses, it's still running in the red. Simple reason: the average tourist doesn't want to spend that much to see a show without a star. They want big names or they want it for nothing.

Jayne Mansfield, currently touring the strawhat circuit, has convinced a large segment of the rural and suburban population that she owns more bikinis than anyone on earth. She wears them literally all day long, changes into dresses only when necessary on the stage, then dons another bikini for signing autographs at the stage door, going to parties, supping in restaurants and strolling the avenues . . . The place to go in Gotham these nights is a little Italian bistro on 88th St. and 2nd Ave. The sign outside says "Elaine's" and Elaine Stritch is behind the bar, mixing drinks for the customers and getting atmosphere, as they used to say, for her next play, Mike Gazzos' "Warner Bros. Wants to Know." The real owners of the place are Ring Lardner's granddaughter, Joan, and Elaine Kaufman, but actress Stritch has brought in a whole new clientele — socialites and stage folk, naturally — since she started pouring the scotch and mixing the Bloody Marys.

Dave Brubeck is writing the jazz musical background for Craig Stevens' new Fall TV series . . . Actor Jim Vickery is toting a torch since Salome Jens married Ralph Meeker. He was her on-and-off steady for two years before she made the big choice, and now he's most unhappy fella. This is his second poignant experience with ladies of the stage; before Salome, he was married to Coleen Dewhurst.

Whenever Shirley MacLaine wants to have a little fun with the press — especially those foreign reporters—she pretends she's "changing her image" and that's always good for a few lively paragraphs. Now in London filming "The Yellow Rolls-Royce," she says she's tired of making the "10 worst-dressed" lists, tired of being classified

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Court Orders Arrests For Overdue Books

The continue with the leg-pulling, Shirley demurely announces she taught Audrey to cuss in return for a few fashion tips and household hints, none of which she has taken so far.

"What a revelation that girl is!" she says of Audrey. "I travel around the world with one suitcase I've had since 1958. Audrey and Mel crate up all their possessions and take them with them everywhere. China, pictures, glass, silver, everything. And do you know Audrey lists every item in those crates? If I tried things like that I'd become a basket case. Of course, my husband and I don't have any possessions to crate up. When we get home to L.A., I go to the local five and 10 cent store and stock up on towels."

EAST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Warrants for the arrest of 26 borrowers of over-due library books were issued Friday by East Orange Municipal Court.

This was the second time in three years that library officials enlisted aid of detectives in tracking down delinquent borrowers.

Three years ago detectives staged a series of midnight visits, rousing 14 persons from their beds in a crackdown on book borrowers.

This time detectives have orders from Mayor James W. Kelly Jr. to make any necessary arrests between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Warrants for their arrest were issued on grounds of criminal contempt of court.

Robert Ewing Scholarship Is Awarded Senior

Judith Elizabeth Lee of Alexandria, a senior in the Louisiana State University School of Journalism, has been awarded the $800 Robert Ewing Scholarship for work in the field of journalism.

Set up in honor of the late Col. Robert Ewing, Louisiana newspaper editor and political and civic leader, the Ewing award is derived from earnings of a trust fund established by the late John D. Ewing, former editor and publisher of the Shreveport Times; his sister, the late Mrs. Ester Ewing Brown; his brother, Robert Ewing Jr., and chairman of the board of the News-Star-World Publishing Co., the late Wilson Ewing and the late Toulmin Ewing.

Native of South Carolina, Miss Lee has lived in the central Louisiana town for 10 years. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kenneth Lee of 312 Eola Drive, Alexandria.

Miss Lee was the LSU selection for a summer internship with the United States Department of State in 1964. She is holder of a Centennial Honor Award.

Earning a scholastic average of 2.5 out of a 3.0 possible, the winner has earned 31 hours in honors courses. Honors won at the university include freshman adviser, membership in Alpha Lambda Delta honorary scholastic sorority and Delta Gamma social sorority.

According to Dr. F. J. Price, director of the LSU School of Journalism, the recipient "more than meets the selection standards established by the donors of the Robert Ewing scholarship."

State To Ask Help In Mixing Parish Schools

BATON ROUGE (UPI)—The state of Louisiana will ask the Community Relations Service (CRS), created by the Civil Rights Act, to help work out desegregation of public schools in racially-tense St. Helena Parish.

It was believed to be the first area the CRS has been asked to enter.

St. Helena Parish school officials earlier expressed fear that violence might erupt if the schools are desegregated next month as demanded by federal courts.

U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West today granted a school board motion to delay his order for a desegregation plan until the CRS and U. S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel could be asked for help.

West had ordered the board to submit a plan for partial desegregation by noon today or face total desegregation when schools open Aug. 12.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion submitted the motion for a delay today on behalf of the school board. He said it was the first request submitted to the CRS.

West commended school officials for seeking federal help. He joined with them in urging the CRS and the U. S. Commissioner to intervene.

However, West's ruling that the schools must be desegregated, still stood.

West said he was delaying his order for a plan "for an indefinite period or until further order of this court." He approved the motion only 35 minutes before the noon deadline.

Before the hearing, Gremlion and Assty. Atty. Gen. Tom McFerrin met with West in his chambers.

U. S. Atty. Louis Lacour, after hearing the ruling, foned Washington for Burke Marshall, who heads the U. S. Justice Department's civil rights division. Lacour would not say what was discussed.

How To Keep Well

By THEODORE VAN DILLION

ADVANTAGES OF BREAST FEEDING

The milk of every mammal is specific for its offspring, including humans. Breast milk still is the best food for infants because it meets all the child's nutritional needs. Provided the mother is healthy and eating properly. It is clean, readily digested, and enriched with minerals and vitamins.

Nursing saves time and requires no equipment. There is no chance of making an error, as is possible in preparing the formula, and the danger of bacterial contamination is nil. In addition, some women do not ovulate during lactation, which helps to space children.

The breast-fed baby is happier and has fewer illnesses. There is less vomiting, regurgitation, diarrhea, and allergy, including eczema. Nursing encourages a more intimate parent-child relationship, the foundation for good mental health. Most mothers learn early that giving of themselves stimulates the emotional development of their children.

Not all women are able to nurse but it is surprising how many can, with proper advice and encouragement. The physician or nurse may neglect to discuss the desirability of the practice and explain that it might take time before an adequate supply of milk appears. The mother must keep trying if she expects to be successful.

We do not want to leave the impression that artificial feeding is difficult, unsafe, and unsuccessful. Thousands of infants have thrived on cow's milk and formulas. These products are essential for babies of mothers who cannot or do not wish to breast feed. Furthermore, they are excellent supplements when the parents go out for an evening or additional nourishment is needed when mother's supply is inadequate.

Optimist Club Told Goldwater Provides Choice

Charles Chisholm, a delegate to the Republican national convention, of Monroe said Friday the nomination of U. S. Sen. Barry Goldwater brought a "brand new, conservative party" to the United States.

In a talk to the Monroe Optimist Club, Chisholm, a businessman, said the nomination of Goldwater gave the American people a "clear cut choice" in the presidential election.

"We'd better vote for the man rather than staying with the party that's been disloyal to you," he said. "If you are looking for a conservative government, you'll have to look beyond the Democratic party."

Chisholm charged that the Democratic party had "bypassed the South."

Goldwater, he said, drew his support at the convention from the "grass roots level," including financing. He explained that the senator's convention workers were volunteers.

"The East was flabbergasted at what the South and the West could do," Chisholm explained.

But he pointed out that Goldwater began four years ago running for President after withdrawing as a candidate in the 1960 convention when Richard Nixon was nominated.

"Sen. Goldwater built one of the most fantastic political organizations in history," he said.

Advocating a two-party system in the South, Chisholm said it was time the Republicans ran candidates on the local level, including candidates for sheriff, mayor and aldermen.

"We should have issues and not a popularity contest," he stated.

Elephant Tries For False Alarm

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The hot, muggy weather here is even affecting the elephants at the city zoo.

Sally, one of the zoo's pachyderms, was seen Friday reaching for a fire alarm box with her trunk—apparently hoping for a hosing down by firemen.

She wasn't able to trip the alarm, but the city fire department decided to move the box out of trunk's reach anyway.

Football Redbirds Are Not Moving

By TOM PENDERGAST

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Football Cardinals have ended their flirtation with Atlanta by deciding to stay in St. Louis. The Associated Press learned Friday.

Bill Bidwell, Cardinals vice president, said announcement of a decision would be made this weekend. While saying no decision had been made, he told the Atlanta Journal: "There have been some developments within the past few days which have caused us to reconsider our original position to move to Atlanta."

The Journal quoted Bidwell later in the day, however, as saying The Associated Press story was pure "hogwash."

"It is entirely incorrect," Bidwell told the Journal. "Some of the stadium people here are in a panic and handing out incorrect information. For instance, a quote attributed to me Thursday about everything being fine, is inaccurate. I was talking about the lunch we had just had."

"As for informing someone in Atlanta that we won't move, that is untrue, also," the Journal quoted Bidwell. "I haven't talked to anyone in Atlanta in almost a week and I don't think Stormy has either."

Charles (Stormy) Bidwell, Bill's brother and Cardinals president, was with the team at its Lake Forest, Ill., training camp and could not be reached immediately.

However, the AP learned that the Bidwells have told Atlanta officials: "St. Louis has given us everything we wanted."

They apparently referred to concessions by city and civic leaders over lease and rental terms at St. Louis' new sports stadium, now under construction, and over the city's five percent admissions tax on professional sports events.

The move left Atlanta, mistress of the South, in the mood of a maiden scored. "The Cardinals have sold us out," said one official. "They used us as a whipping boy to get what they wanted."

Both cities have new sports stadiums under construction. Atlanta's 57,000-seat structure will be ready next year and the 55,000-seat downtown sports stadium in St. Louis is scheduled for completion in 1966.

The Cardinals' Atlanta romance started over lease terms at the new St. Louis stadium. They had been asked for a 30-year lease agreement and a rental equivalent to 12 percent of the gate on home games. The city's five per cent sales tax on professional sports events also was irksome to the Big Red, and they had averaged only 22,000 fans a game.

Atlanta countered with promises of greater sports patronage, a softer lease agreement and only 10 percent of the gate as rent. No Atlanta professional sports sales tax exists.

However, spurred by newspapers and civic leaders, influential St. Louisians set out to change the St. Louis major league schedule to make it easier for the Big Red to share Busch Stadium until the new edifice is completed. He even offered to sell football tickets on the street.

Joseph Griesedieck, a 10 per cent stockholder in the football club and president of the Fallstaff Brewing Corp., sponsor of televised Cardinal games, got into the act. He met several times with the Bidwell brothers in efforts to arrange ticket sale guarantees.

City officials took another look at the St. Louis sports sales tax, and civic leaders made new offers about stadium leases and rent.

Even two U.S. Senators took part in the drive to keep the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long, Missouri Democrats, put pressure on the Bidwells. Symington sent a sharply worded letter to the owners that contained ominous mentions of federal anti-trust actions, and Long approved his stand.

The Cardinals, oldest team in the NFL, came to St. Louis from Chicago in 1960.

Officials in Atlanta indicated they may try next for a team from the American Football League.

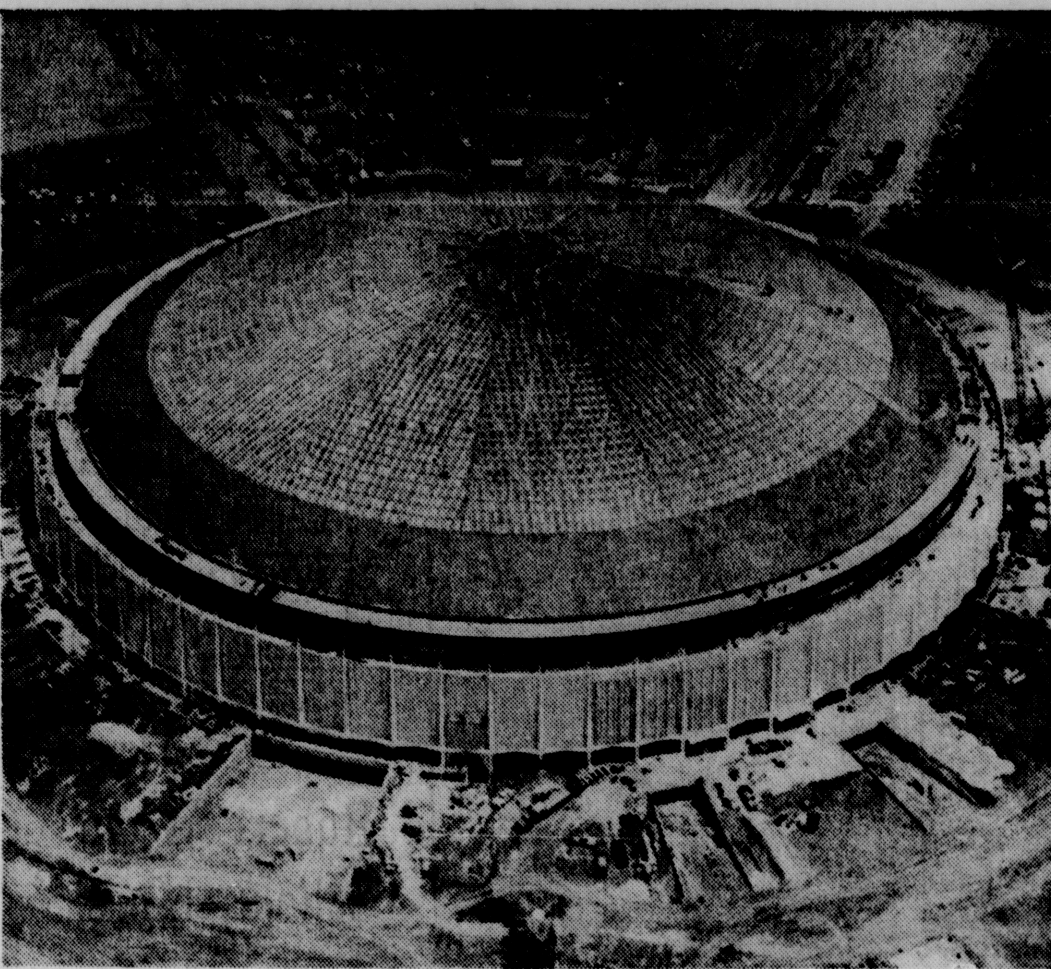

South Franklin Takes Tourney In Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — South Franklin edged Ferriday, 3-2, in seven innings, behind the no-hit pitching of Gary Ensminger, in the finals of the sub-district Dixie Youth Tourney here Friday night.

The winners scored the winning run in the top of the seventh on an error and two wild pitches to take the win, and avenge a 3-0 loss to Ferriday Thursday night.

South Franklin meets the winner of the north half tourney that is now being held.

Scott Tiffie was the losing hurler.

THE FINAL skylight, a 7'x3'4" acrylic plastic aluminum-framed rectangle was in place to complete the roofing of Houston's Domet Stadium. The air-conditioned domed stadium is the future home of the National League Houston Colts, the American Football League Houston Oilers and the University of Houston. The dome contains 4,596 skylights, each weighing 80 pounds. The 642-foot clear-span dome is now completely roofed and rain will no longer delay inside construction. The stadium is 70 percent complete and is due for official opening in April, 1965. (AP Wirephoto)

FINALLY YIELDS PAR

White Reaches Finals In Western Amateur

CHICAGO (AP)—Favored Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La. finally yielded to par but still scored an easy semi-final triumph over Jean Ashley of Colorado Springs, Colo. and will meet Patti Shook of Saginaw, Mich., in today's 36-hole championship match.

Miss White, the 1962 finalist, finished strongly for a 4 and 3 triumph over Jean Ashley of Colorado Springs, Colo. and will meet Patti Shook of Saginaw, Mich., in today's 36-hole championship match.

Miss Shook, 21 winner of the 1964 Women's Intercollegiate representing Valparaiso University, took a see-saw 2 and 1 decision from Doris Phillips, 28 of Belleville, Ill.

FOR 3-WAY TIE

Venturi Fires 63 In Insurance Go

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi shot a sizzling 63, one-putting on 10 greens, to share the half-way lead of the Insurance City Open Golf Tournament Friday with Bert Yancey and Al Bessellink.

They were deadlocked after two rounds at 133, nine under par for the Wethersfield Country Club course. Yancey and Bessellink each shot 67s to go with their first round 66.

Venturi had a 70 in the opening round of the $50,000 test but made up a lot of ground on the first nine holes Friday. He went into 30, equalling the nine-hole PGA record for the 6,569-yard course. He toured the back nine in 33 to finish eight under par for the day.

Al Geiberger, Thursday's leader with a 64, had a 70 to tie Jim Ferree at 134. Ferree added a 68 to his first-day 66.

"Venturi's pitching to the pin and use of his irons was simply phenomenal," said Bill Meyers, who was in Ken's threesome along with George Bayne.

The 40-year-old Bessellink said he had "the best two rounds I've ever played." He is back on the pro tour after a three-year absence because of illness.

Yancey, 25, said, "It's the first time I've ever broken 140 in two rounds."

Sam Carmichael followed Geiberger and Ferree with 135.

Sam Snead fired a 68 for a total of 137. Billy Casper, last year's winner, shot a 69 for 138. Bobby Nichols, the GA champion, shot a 70 and Julius Boros a 71 to finish among the 140 group.

Billy Maxwell, who won the IGO in 1961 after a playoff, withdrew Friday morning after his left wrist failed to respond to treatment. Maxwell injured the wrist Thursday while trying to get off a shot under a tree.

This is the first Western Amateur start for Miss Shook.

Miss White is making her fourth appearance.

Miss White, who entered Friday's match seven under par for 39 competitive holes, failed to better par for the first time on the front nine. She took a 39, two over par for the Oak Park Country Club course, and one stroke more than Miss Ashley but the match was deadlocked at this point.

Miss White, who lost to Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis. in the 1962 Western Amateur title match, then began chipping brilliantly to take four of the next six holes and close out the match on the 15th.

Over the front nine, the lead changed hands four times. The only hole halved was the second with par fours. Miss White moved in front three times and Miss Ashley was ahead once.

While Miss White was one over par for the 15-hole distance, Miss Ashley, folding badly on the back nine, wound up five over par.

The Phillips-Shook match also was squared at the nine-hole turn, with Miss Phillips posting a four-over-par 41 and Miss Shook a 42.

The 10th, 11th and 12th holes were halved and Miss Phillips went 1-up for the second time in the match on the 13th as Miss Shook drove badly and took a bogey six.

On the 14th, Miss Shook evened the match with a par four as Miss Phillips, second shot went into the water.

Miss Shook went ahead on the 16th, chipping to within four feet for a winning par 4 and then closed the match on the 17th where Miss Phillips had all kinds of trouble for a double bogey six.

Contractors Nip All-Stars, 4-3

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston's James Contractors defeated a Dixie Boys All-Star team from the Northern Tri-Peak League 4-3 here Friday night. George Stone and Melvin Shows both went two for four for the Contractors. The Tri-Parish team is made up of boys from Bernice, Farmer, Dubach, Downsboro, Jonesboro and Marion.

BEAT CARDS, 9-1

Cookie Rojas Leads Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cookie Rojas slammed a triple and two singles in support of Chris Short's six-hit pitching as the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies swept to their fourth straight victory by whipping St. Louis 9-1 Friday night. The Phillies jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning with the aid of the first of four St. Louis errors and never were headed.

With two out, Johnny Callison drew a walk off Bob Gibson, stole second and raced to third when the throw by catcher Tim McCarver went wild. Wes Covington and Caly Dalrymple then rapped run-scoring singles.

Rojas' single in the second started a two-run rally, and he drove in two runs in the sixth with a triple. In the eighth he again led off with a single and eventually scored when Julian Javier fumbled Tony Gonzalez' grounder.

Short, meanwhile, had difficulty with the Cardinals only in the third when two-out singles by Gibson, Curt Flood and Lou Brock produced the St. Louis run. The victory was Short's ninth against five losses.

West Monroe, Monroe Meet In Final Game

Northside Monroe scored six runs in the fifth inning to defeat Ruston, 7-4, Friday night, and set the stage for a Twin-City rivalry in the final game of the District West Dixie Boys Tournament being held at Confederate Park in West Monroe tonight.

The big fifth inning was highlighted by a three run homer to center by Skeeter Lussuzzo after Ryan Rogers was safe on an error and Ronnie Russell singled.

Rod Scooter had a homer for the Ruston nine, that was eliminated.

Bokey Hearne, manager of the West Monroe team, has stated that he will go with Richard Martin as his starting pitcher. Martin won Tuesday night when the team routed Richland Parish, 10-2.

Martin's catcher will be Tommy Huff, who had a double in that Tuesday night game. The West Monroe team will also be paced by James Arrant, the clean-up hitter who doubled Thursday night and homered Tuesday.

If the Northside Monroe team wins the first game a second game will follow immediately for the championship. If West Monroe wins the tourney is over.

The winner of the tourney will go to Pineville Monday for the beginning of the state meet, which West Monroe is defending champs.

Admission for tonight's game is $1 for adults and .50 for children under 12.

Yanks Fall To 2nd With Split

DETROIT (AP)—Elston Howard's three-run homer in the sixth inning, the sixth of the night for New York, carried the Yankees to a 6-3 victory Detroit and a doubleheader split Friday night.

The Tigers won the opener 10-5 as Al Kaline hit a two-run homer that launched an eight-run eighth inning before the largest American League crowd of the season—51,044.

The split dropped the Yankees into second place behind the Baltimore Orioles, who swept a doubleheader from Washington.

Al Kaline hit a two-run homer, his fourth homer in as many games, to give the Tigers a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap. Both teams scored in the third before the Yankees hit in the fourth when Hector Lopez and Joe Pepitone hit consecutive homers off Mickey Lolich in the fifth.

Howard's homer, which hit the roof in left field, provided the Yankees with their winning margin.

Hal Reniff relieved New York starter Whitey Ford in the third and picked up his fourth victory. Ralph Terry came on in the eighth. Ford was forced to retire because of his recurring hip injury.

Pitcher Juan Pizarro, seeking his 14th victory but getting tagged with his fifth loss, hit a home run in the bottom of the second to give Chicago a 2-2 lead.

Minnesota came back with a pair in the fifth to go ahead to stay on Versalles' 10th home run and a single by Tony Oliva followed by Harmon Killebrew's run-scoring double. Kastro hit a two-run homer in the ninth.

THE MOVE LEFT ATLANTA, MISTRESS OF THE SOUTH, IN THE MOOD OF A MAIDEN SCORED.

"The Cardinals have sold us out," said one official. "They used us as a whipping boy to get what they wanted."

Both cities have new sports stadiums under construction. Atlanta's 57,000-seat structure will be ready next year and the 55,000-seat downtown sports stadium in St. Louis is scheduled for completion in 1966.

The Cardinals' Atlanta romance started over lease terms at the new St. Louis stadium. They had been asked for a 30-year lease agreement and a rental equivalent to 12 percent of the gate on home games. The city's five per cent sales tax on professional sports events also was irksome to the Big Red, and they had averaged only 22,000 fans a game.

Atlanta countered with promises of greater sports patronage, a softer lease agreement and only 10 percent of the gate as rent. No Atlanta professional sports sales tax exists.

However, spurred by newspapers and civic leaders, influential St. Louisians set out to change the St. Louis major league schedule to make it easier for the Big Red to share Busch Stadium until the new edifice is completed. He even offered to sell football tickets on the street.

Joseph Griesedieck, a 10 per cent stockholder in the football club and president of the Fallstaff Brewing Corp., sponsor of televised Cardinal games, got into the act. He met several times with the Bidwell brothers in efforts to arrange ticket sale guarantees.

City officials took another look at the St. Louis sports sales tax, and civic leaders made new offers about stadium leases and rent.

Even two U.S. Senators took part in the drive to keep the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long, Missouri Democrats, put pressure on the Bidwells. Symington sent a sharply worded letter to the owners that contained ominous mentions of federal anti-trust actions, and Long approved his stand.

The Cardinals, oldest team in the NFL, came to St. Louis from Chicago in 1960.

Officials in Atlanta indicated they may try next for a team from the American Football League.

South Franklin Takes Tourney In Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — South Franklin edged Ferriday, 3-2, in seven innings, behind the no-hit pitching of Gary Ensminger, in the finals of the sub-district Dixie Youth Tourney here Friday night.

The winners scored the winning run in the top of the seventh on an error and two wild pitches to take the win, and avenge a 3-0 loss to Ferriday Thursday night.

South Franklin meets the winner of the north half tourney that is now being held.

Scott Tiffie was the losing hurler.

Thirteen Marine Corps Helicopters Join Major Bid To Halt Forest Fire

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI)—Thirteen Marine Corps helicopters joined Friday in a major bid to stop a giant four-day 12,000 acre forest fire despite gusty, capricious winds and 90-100 degree heat. "The next few hours should tell the story, if the weather holds," David Waite, information officer of the U.S. Forest Service, said Friday afternoon. The man-caused fire, possibly started by a carelessly tossed match Tuesday near U.S. 66, had destroyed 300 acres of timber as well as 11,700 acres of brush and scrub. The fire, which Thursday threatened the mountain village of Cedar Springs, was 90 percent contained Friday noon. But there was one major hot spot, a one-mile perimeter. The helicopter onslaught by the Third Marine Aircraft Wing was necessitated because conventional tankers could not operate. The rough mountain terrain obscured by heavy smoke made bomber drops too risky, leaving the job to more maneuverable helicopters.

The World for WOMEN

MONROE MORNING WORLD, Saturday, July 25, 1964 — 1-B

PINK SNAPDRAGONS formed the centerpiece for the reception table Tuesday evening, when a group of hostesses entertained with a bridal shower for Miss Julia Ann Wilhite.

bride-elect of Leo B. Wall. Pictured before the guests arrived were Mrs. J. F. Jones Jr., hostess, Mrs. W. E. Wilhite, mother of the honoree, Miss Wilhite and Mrs. Donald Logan.

Bridal Shower Honors Miss Julia Ann Wilhite

A coterie of hostesses entertained last Tuesday evening in the social rooms of the First National Bank in West Monroe, honoring Miss Julia Ann Wilhite, bride-elect of Leo B. Wall. The couple, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Wilhite of West Monroe and Mrs. John Turner Wall of McLeod, Texas, will be married on August 22 at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe.

Hostesses for the evening compliment were Mrs. Coy Pratt, Mrs. Donald Logan, Mrs. Q. L. Barnes Jr., Mrs. Carroll Roundtree, Mrs. J. F. Jones, Mrs. Jules Watts, Mrs. J. L. Walters, Mrs. T. O. Moreau, Mrs. Bill Burray, Mrs. J. L. Hayden and Mrs. Grover Voss. Mrs. Hayden and Mrs. Logan alternated in presiding at the bride's book, while Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Jones joined the honoree and her mother in the receiving line. Miss Wilhite wore a white crepe jersey sheath, featuring a shirred bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. Her corsage was of pink chrysanthemums.

A pink pyramid arrangement and a bride's doll decorated the linen covered registry table, while pink snapdragons in a silver and crystal compote flanked by crystal candlesticks centered the reception table, which was overlaid with a white cut-work cloth over pink. Alternating at the punch bowl during the evening hours of 7 and 9 were Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Roundtree, Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Moreau, while Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Voss and Mrs. Watts served. Tea girls were Misses Judy Voss, Carolyn Wilhite, Kathy Hilburn and Sandra Barnes. Approximately 150 guests called during the appointed hours.

Lynn Smith Complimented At Luncheon

Mrs. J. S. Amman entertained at Bayou DeSiard Country Club last Tuesday with a bridal luncheon complimentary to Miss Lynn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Smith. The honoree is the bride-elect of Fred C. Culpepper III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Culpepper Jr. They will be married on August 8 at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

An arrangement of white stock and asters centered the luncheon table, set in the private dining room of the club. Place cards of white and silver marked the seating for the guests, who included the honoree, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Culpepper, Miss Carol Culpepper, Miss Louise Amman, Miss Julie Amman, Miss Lea Thompson, Miss Sandra Guyton, Miss Melany Wood and the hostess.

For the occasion, Miss Smith wore a red and white ensemble with white accessories. She was presented with a corsage of white asters and a gift of silver by her hostess.

Area Wedding Preceded By Supper Party

The Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Kennedy were hosts last week at a supper in their home at Goodwill, following the rehearsal for the wedding of bride-elect Tomette Shivers and their son, Elton Kennedy. The marriage was solemnized Saturday, July 18, at the First Baptist Church.

The large banquet table was covered with white linen and centered with yellow roses interspersed with greenery. A miniature bride and bridegroom stood amid ivy which led to place cards fashioned as wedding bells tied with yellow ribbon.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of gifts by the couple to their attendants.

Assisting Mrs. Kennedy with the courtesies were her three daughters, Mrs. Alvin Oldham of Irving, Texas, Mrs. Dwight Grubbs of Oak Grove and Mrs. Kenneth Strawn of Lafayette, Indiana.

Those present with the hosts and the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shivers Sr., Mr. and Mrs. James Earl Shivers Jr. of Tallulah; Miss Jeanette Johns, Miss Jackie Kester, Miss Ann Roberts, and Miss Leah Rush, all of Oak Grove; Miss Billie Jean Rush of Shreveport; Miss Dee Hamilton of Kilbourne, the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Cheatham of Pineville; Larry Kennedy, Ronnie Elkins and Thurmon Smith, all of Oak Grove.

Tete à Tete

A SWIM, A STEAK and dancing to the dreamy music of Phares Corder and his orchestra. What more could you ask for a perfect summer evening? That's the treat in store for adult members of Bayou DeSiard Country Club this evening with informality the theme. The pool will be open to adults only after five, with the cook-out planned for seven and music for dancing, 8-12 p.m.

MRS. FRED L. STRICKLIN's home in West Monroe was fairly bursting at the seams this past week with the fun of a family together. Visitors included her brother-in-law, Paul Stricklin and Mrs. Stricklin of Paragould, Arkansas, who were here for a visit of several days; a niece, Mrs. Alan Weaver and son, Pat of Little Rock; and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stricklin with children, Sam, Terry, Gay, Susan and Bob of Freer, Texas. The Robert Stricklin family spent three weeks in the Twin Cities, where they were also the guests of her mother, Mrs. Mary Lou Shaughnessy of Monroe.

VISITING IN THE HOME of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Roberts on Country Club Drive are his cousin and family, Dr. and Mrs. William D. Roberts and children, Don, Dave and Doug of Dayton, Ohio. The Ohioans have been vacationing in the West and made the Monroe stop en route home. They leave today.

Rehearsal Dinner Fetes Miss Cooper, Mr. Hollis

A dinner party following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Frances DeLane Cooper and Jesse Benjamin Hollis last evening concluded the prenuptial festivities preceding the couple's marriage, which will be solemnized this evening at Central Baptist Church. Hosts for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Almer Hollis, parents of the prospective groom, and his aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Colvin III and Mr. and Mrs. Burl Hollis.

Setting for the dinner was the Colvin home on Emerson Street, where white magnolias and wedding bells were noted on the mantel.

The bride's table was decorated with a crystal candelabra entwined with ivy and an arrangement of mixed summer flowers, while ivy encircled candles were used on each of the other tables.

Miss Cooper's ensemble for the occasion was a black and white sheath topped by a short jacket featuring a black and white polka dot bow. Her accessories were in white.

Sharing the evening with the honored couple and their hosts were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooper, parents of the bride-elect, Mrs. Travis Hollis, Mrs. Drew Nolen, Miss Connie Nolen, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Littleton, the Rev. and Mrs. John Green, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Steohens, Miss Ann Grafton, Miss Rita

DEAR ABBY

No Woman Would Be Housekeeper, Not Wife

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is going to leave me and my two children in the near future. I would like a nice-looking woman between 30 and 40 to keep house for me and the children. I am very lonely and in need of female companionship, and maybe I could fall in love with her. I can't get married again because of my religion so I had better make that plain, but I am sure there are many women who wouldn't mind living like that. She would have to be about five feet two or three. No taller, and not too fat. But I would prefer one a little too plump to one who is skinny. She'd have to be a good cook and housekeeper, and in good health. I can't stand to hear a woman complain about her health. She would have to like baseball, football and roller skating. I can't pay much, but I have a nice home, automatic heat and a power lawn mower. Thank you very much.

DEAR WAITING: If you expect to find a good-looking cook, housekeeper, companion, playmate and nursemaid, who will work like a horse in exchange for a roof over her head, forget it. No woman in her right mind would assume all the responsibilities of a wife with none of the benefits.

DEAR ABBY: For the past four years my husband has been wearing a hair piece. As far as I know, nobody has ever kidded him about it, although I would just as soon he didn't wear it, and so would our children. Lately he has become

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Let's Declare War On Kitchen Weevils

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Friend:

Got weevils? That's the little bug (or worm in some items) that shows up now and then and we wonder where in the world we got 'em.

Don't despair. We all get them at one time or another. They can be brought home from the store (grocers tell us that sometimes they get meal, or flour with weevils when it is delivered), or something has been kept too long (paprika perhaps?), and often they just come. We don't know where or how exactly but then it makes no difference. Let's try to do the best we can to get rid of them and keep out of other foods.

The most common items that these little devils love is paprika, corn meal, and flours and mixtures of flours such as cake mixes and biscuit mixes.

Hundreds of people have written us telling us that if you put a bay leaf in your product that it will discourage weevils. I believe it! The bay leaf will NOT taste and manufacturers of dried foods are now putting these in some things.

Others say to put a stick of chewing gum (unwrapped) on top of the packages and you will see nary-a-one. They may not like chewing gum but I haven't found it to actually kill the weevils. Just keeps 'em from jumping from one home to the other.

The most inexpensive way to control your little weevils is to keep your condiments and weevil type products in fruit jars with the screw type caps. Know why? Because even though something develops weevils, or has them when you bring them home from the store... they can't run from one product to the other.

Put your stuff in old fruit jars. They don't cost anything! Besides they are nice and clean, you can see when you are low on something and they look nice in your cabinet.

When you replace something in these jars... tear the directions off the box and put the little piece of paper inside the jar. It's wonderful. Then when you need the recipe it's always there.

I just figure that anyone can go buy expensive containers for this type stuff but... if you will stop to think about it... why waste your money for special containers when fruit jars have been used for years to pack foods in? They must be great! They are. I use 'em. I know. Love the thought that they don't cost anything. Helps our budget, too. Eh?

Also, breakfast food (especially stuff like cream-of-wheat and oatmeal) are great when poured into these old fruit jars. When you get ready to go to the store you can glance at the jar and this eliminates "shall I buy another box of oatmeal this week, etc." Saves time too, when you make that list.

And, gals, watch your condiment and spice shelf. These little angels love that. If you have stuff in cans... transfer them to screw-type capped jars. Then if that certain something gets weevils... they can't jump into the rest of the expensive seasonings. This one idea alone will help save the expense of replacing ALL (or most of, and wondering if you will have to replace the others later...) your condiments and spices.

And listen to this: One can place the label from the jar and all directions on the outside can, fruit jar etc., with scotch tape. Makes for better preparations later in case you can't remember a recipe.

Some fruit jars now have wide tops. Use these when available. Makes for better removal of the product inside.

And folks, remember that Rome wasn't built in a day. Neither can your home be perfected in less time! Just try. Do the best you can and quit letting it worry you.

If you THINK yours is in bad order... you just ought to see your neighbors! I get letters from her, too!

The answer? Keep your head above water, when you think it is going under, don't give up. This housekeeping business has been going on thousands of years. It will go on many more.

Remember that if anyone had perfected it... there would be no housekeeping! Look at it with vim, vigor and vitality! Wouldn't our lives be mighty dull without it? Whatever would we do? Weevils or NO.

Linen Shower Given To Fete Della Gordon

Miss Della Gordon, bride-elect of Lee S. Myers of Lake Providence, was honored with a linen shower Monday afternoon. Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Cain and Mrs. W. F. Bonner Jr., who entertained in the Cain home, overlooking Lake Providence. The couple will wed August 1 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lake Providence.

Daisies were used throughout the reception rooms.

The honoree wore for her party a pale blue cotton dress with scoop neckline, pleated skirt and short sleeves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Misses Sandy Tomlinson and Kathy Cain presided at the refreshment table, which was overlaid with an imported linen cloth and centered with magnolia leaves in a low silver bowl. Coffee and sherry were served from opposite ends of the table.

Approximately 50 guests were invited to the affair.

Mrs. Sanders Hostess For Highland Club

The Highland Study Club held its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday, July 21, in the home of Mrs. W. B. Sanders, with Mrs. Grayson Hicks serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. Sidney A. Swink, president, presided over a brief business session discussing the possibilities of getting a guest speaker for a Christmas program in November.

MR. AND MRS. H. E. SANDERSON

West Monroians Observe Fiftieth Anniversary

In celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sanderson were honored at open house Sunday, July 19 at their home, 207 Laurel, West Monroe, between the hours of 3 until 5 p.m.

The Sandersons were married July 19, 1914 in Eros and have lived in Lincoln and Ouachita Parishes since. They are parents of three daughters, Mrs. Harold Cook, West Monroe; Mrs. Ben Jiles Jr., Ruston and Mrs. Louie Frazier, West Monroe and two sons, H. A. and Bud Sanderson, both of West Monroe. They also have nine grandchildren.

Hostesses for the open house event were their daughters and daughters-in-law. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Frazier greeted guests at the door and seated at the guest book was Miss Jill Sanderson, granddaughter of the honorees.

For the occasion Mrs. Sanderson wore a navy blue crepe dress with white lace collar and a corsage of golden carnations, tied with gold ribbon.

An arrangement of gold carnations combined with white stock and fern centered the Catholic Club Has Meeting In West Monroe

Members of the Catholic Social Club gathered at the home of Mrs. Gerald Evans on Fernside in West Monroe last Wednesday evening for an evening of bridge and canasta. Co-hostesses for the evening were Mrs. James E. Hice and Mrs. Edward A. Burns.

Three tables of bridge and two of canasta were set up on the porch for the evening. High score in bridge was tallied by Mrs. Marshall Charlton, with consolation going to Mrs. Theo Herr. Mrs. Jay Michele won the canasta prize.

Attending were Mrs. W. L. Licht, Mrs. Ivan Brewer, Mrs. J. A. Hummel, Mrs. L. W. Kessler, Mrs. Troy Francis, Mrs. Francella BeDout, Mrs. J. P. Flavin, Mrs. John Hanlon, Mrs. Marvin Sikes, Mrs. Richard LeBrun, Mrs. Robert Poche, Mrs. Ted Brownfield, Mrs. Richard Driscoll, Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, Mrs. Charlton, Mrs. Herr, Mrs. Michele and the hostesses.

During the brief business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Brownfield, it was decided to have the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Hice on Wednesday, August 19.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. John Lewis, who discussed line and design arrangements brought by the various members.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served to the Mrs. Bill Heard, Mrs. Sidney Swink, Mrs. J. F. Smith, Mrs. James W. Cook, Mrs. John Read, Mrs. Bill Downey, Mrs. R. W. Einhorn, Mrs. John Lewis, and the hostesses, Mrs. W. B. Sanders and Mrs. A. G. Hicks.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Only those who have had straight, arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise your head and right shoulder off of the floor and bend your left knee, bringing the knee up close to the chest. At the same time, bend your right elbow, move it across your body and touch the right elbow to the left knee.

Return leg and shoulder and head to the floor. The next time bend your right knee and your left elbow touch. If you cannot touch, come as near as you can. With practice you will succeed.

If you would like to have my short routine of exercise (just seven exercises) planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 19. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

While becoming fit for their country's sake they fell heir to many happy surprises. Chronic fatigue, constipation and stiff sore joints were no longer problems. Even more exciting, pads of fat over the diaphragm and abdomen and above the girdle were conquered like they hoped to beat the enemy. The figure became streamlined and flabbiness disappeared.

It's too bad that it takes a war to make us fit. Perhaps today men and women are more aware of the value of exercise for good looks and health than they were some years ago.

The following exercise is a honey because it does so many lovely things for the feminine form. It is a mild abdominal exercise, exercises the neck muscles, is corrective to fat across the shoulders and gives your internal organs a wonderful massage.

Here it is. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs Paula and Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Norris.

2 Appointments Are Announced At Grambling

GRAMBLING (Special) — Dr. Robert W. Hunter, dean of the Division of Education, announced two appointments at Grambling College Friday.

Dr. Hellen Richards, professor of education, was named head of elementary education, and Dr. Charles Berry, professor of education was appointed head of the secondary education curriculum.

Dr. Richards returned to the campus in September from a three-year leave in Ibandan, Nigeria, West Africa, with the Ohio State University teacher education overseas staff.

Charcoal Broil Safe For Food, Doctor Claims

CHICAGO (UPI) — A spokesman for the American Medical Association AMA had reassuring words for suburbanites Friday: No harm is caused by the smoke of charcoal-broiled food.

Dr. Philip L. White, secretary of the AMA's Council on Foods and Nutrition, reported in "Today's Health" magazine, published by the AMA.

He said the smoke from drippings hitting live charcoal in outdoor grills is caused primarily by incompletely combusted fat.

"It is called thermal decomposition because fats begin to break down at temperatures under those required for ignition," White said. "The same thing happens when frying fat begins to smoke when overheated."

White said fat which has been partially decomposed by heat produces substances which have been suspected of being suspected of being hazardous. However, he said no harm has been found in either man or animal.

Ruston Girl, 15, Hurt In Crash

A 15-year-old Ruston girl, Priscilla Ann Dunn, was injured Friday afternoon in a two-car collision at Forsythe Avenue and N. 5th St.

She was treated at a local hospital for facial injuries and released.

According to investigating Monroe police, the Dunn girl was a passenger in a car driven by Jan Thomas Colvin, 17, of 2115 Jasmin St., Monroe. The Colvin vehicle was traveling south on N. 5th St., when it collided with a vehicle driven by Jerry Harper, 20 of Collington, going east on Forsythe Avenue.

Police said Colvin failed to yield the right of way and was ticketed for reckless driving.

Bomb Explodes In South Africa; 22 Are Hurt

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A time-bomb exploded in the main passenger concourse of Johannesburg's central railroad station at peak-hour traffic Friday. Twenty-two persons were hurt, 10 seriously.

Police officials said the explosion was "undoubtedly sabotage."

If so, it was the first act of sabotage to be directed at what police called "innocent people."

Previous explosions have hit such targets as power lines, communication lines, government offices and installations.

Police now appear concerned that the blast in an area reserved for whites could be the start of what they refer to as "Algerian-type" terrorist activity in this racially segregated nation.

'MY FAIR LADY'

Musical Shoots High, Hits Mark

By JOHN CALE
Staff Critic

Somebody once said if you want to succeed in show business... well, you just can't do it without really trying. You also can't do it without shooting high once in awhile.

So for a big summer gala, Little Theatre of Monroe took a high, large caliber shot at Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady." It's a big undertaking for this time of year — vacations, summer colds, even the heat (we can't air condition the southern atmosphere yet) and all that.

But the production hit the mark opening night, and we foresee packed houses for the remainder of the run. "Lady" will be on the local boards through August 2.

QUALITY

As to the quality of this musical, there is no doubt. We've pointed out before that operas and musicals don't lend themselves well where there is much character development. Well, we can junk that theory as far as those ditty builders Lerner and Loewe are concerned.

When George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" is poured into the shape of a musical, you have to have character development. Shaw was like that. So what do these tunesmiths do, go abstract? Not at all. They seem to solve the most intricate problems by giving the audience a tune to whistle.

This happened literally right off the bat with Eliza and the cockney folk singing "Wouldn't It Be Lovely." This was a happy combination of barber shop harmony on the part of the Cockneys — later some whistling.

Camille Wood, familiar on the local scene as a vocal soloist, fit the part of Eliza perfectly. We understand this is her first effort for a full-length musical, although who would have guessed it? She handled the transition from a flower girl to higher society on the broad and subtle levels. Even in vocal shadings in the songs, this factor came through.

There were other significant character changes. The fellow who taught her how to speak up town English, Professor Higgins (played by Bill Moore) was a confirmed bachelor until the last song in the final scene. We believe you could go searching all over the English-speaking world — throw in New York and London — and you wouldn't find anyone more capable of wearing this part like a glove. Sing? Higgins doesn't sing. It's that peculiar sort of recitative Lerner and Loewe use to unroll the ascending action. Moore appears to have been talking this way all his life. Fine smile, too.

A musical comedy is supposed to be funny. There are also some dances. Well, Eliza Doolittle does have a father — portrayed by Arthur Griffith. He not only gets lost in some of Shaw's spoofing of collapsing class barriers, but finds that he must marry on account of "middle class respectability."

After a real bang-up dance scene at the beginning of Act II — following the song "I'm Getting Married in the Morning" — he gets carried to the church after the manner of a body being carried away by pallbearers.

COLOR

Judging from the size of the cast, we were agreeably surprised on opening night to see the smooth — working choral and ensemble scenes. Costumes, lights and massive sets also added an extra dimension to this summer spectacular.

There were a number of scene changes, and this was perhaps a factor in the length of the opening performance — some 2 1/2 hours without the intermission period. However, Dick Steff's music in the pit kept these periods alive in most cases.

MUSIC

By the way, the orchestration for "My Fair Lady," a small and musical director staff combination in which every single instrument added a unique coloring to the sung and spoken lines on the stage, rates a study of its own. We can only compare it to the early Mozart operas where every fine line was made to count. Even locating these tricky situations is a job, and pianist Velma Willey searched and delivered.

Several other heavier roles merit our attention. Garland Moore as Colonel Pickering,

Baltimore GOP, Demos Change Party Affiliation

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — In the nine days since Sen. Barry Goldwater's capture of the Republican presidential nomination, 175 Baltimore City Republicans have switched to the Democratic party.

In the same period, 10 Democrats changed their affiliation to Republican and 14 independents said they wanted to declare themselves — 10 as Republicans, four as Democrats.

Among newly registered voters, Democrats outnumber Republicans 8-1, compared with a 4-1 Democratic margin in total registration.

About 46 per cent of Baltimore Republicans are Negroes. Since the Goldwater nomination, 95 per cent of newly registered Negro voters — 675 of 705 — have signed up as Democrats.

"Public records on file at the election board disclosed these figures Friday in the aftermath of a squabble over a Democratic election official's statement that an average of 50 Republicans a day were switching their party affiliation.

Arthur W. Sherwood, the Republican minority member of the three-man election board, said the estimate was outrageously high. About 18 a day would be more accurate, he said.

Betty Silbert, Democratic chairman of the board, said a check indicated about 40 a day was closer to it. This would include, she added, presently registered voters and those who lost their active status by failing to notify the board of address changes, then changed from Republican to Democrat in registering again.

Walter E. Black Jr., Republican city chairman who supported Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton against Goldwater at the party nominating convention, attributed the upsurge in Democratic strength among city voters almost entirely to the racial issue.

Heroic Sisters Try To Rescue Brother In Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three heroic sisters, trapped by a flash fire in their fourth floor tenement apartment, hurled their four-year-old brother out a window Friday in a desperate attempt to save his life and then burned to death before horrified witnesses watching from below.

The young girls were found huddled in death, their bodies charred, beneath the window from which they had thrown their brother to the street.

A storekeeper grabbed the boy, Larry Reason, and wrapped him in a blanket to smother the flames that were eating at his clothing. He was rushed to a hospital in critical condition.

Killed were Pamela Reason, 17, Diane, 13, and Marilyn, 6. Fire officials said the flames erupted from a closet and raced from the back of the apartment toward the front, sealing access to the fire escape in the rear.

Eou Bairnsfather as Mrs. Pearce, and Pat Frazee as the professor's mother, Mrs. Higgins, all carried out the bulk of the spoken word with the best English accents we've heard in a local production.

Then there was a tenor, Frank Swindle, who, as Freddy Eynsford Hill, just couldn't reach Eliza on the level of affection or attraction. But he did a fine job with the solo, "On the Street Where You Live."

In fact, the bridge part of his song "Oh, the towering feeling" — is just about the way you feel after being exposed to this production. We knew it was a pretty good musical. It had to be to pack in crowds since 1957 or thereabouts. But to see it done this well — and attractively so — right here in the good old summer time is indeed a towering experience.

Fair's Musical To Bite Dust Saturday Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — "To Broadway With Love," the lavish musical in the Texas pavilion at the World's Fair, will close Saturday night after its 234th performance.

The show failed to survive despite an heroic last-minute attempt by its backers to lure in crowds with a pay-us-if-you-like-us offer.

It became the third major stage attraction to go down the financial drain since the fair opened.

The only remaining big entertainment spectacle with live performers, outside of the entertainment at various pavilions, is Dick Button's "Ice-Travaganza." But this show is also operating on a week-to-week basis.

The musical in the Texas pavilion's 2,600-seat music hall cost $1.3 million just to bring in. Untold thousands — some estimates run as high as $4 million — were poured into the venture later to keep it alive.

A spokesman who announced the closing said the operator of the music hall had received several offers of new shows in the vast auditorium. However, no immediate decision was expected.

The producers of the musical had announced the closing earlier this week but they had hoped to keep going by attracting fairgoers with their drastic experiment. This too failed.

Board Named, D'Arbonne Lake Order Rescinded

Gov. John McKeithen Friday rescinded an executive order that kept the gates to D'Arbonne Lake closed, named two new members to the lake commission and reappointed three other members.

The governor had previously ordered the gates to the lake closed after the commission voted to open the gates to lower the water level.

Louisiana Wildlife & Fisheries biologists had recommended that the water level be lowered to control weeds on the lake bottom. The lake commission had also voted to lower the water level to permit the construction of public launching ramps.

McKeithen said in regard to the water level that the new commission "may now proceed at its own discretion and judgment."

Named to the lake commission by the governor were L. C. Allen of Farmerville and Donald Lindsey of Bernice. They replace Armand Rabun and Alvin Y. Green Sr., whose terms have expired.

Reappointed were Thomas Brady, Farmerville, and Earl Sears and J. W. Reeves, both of Ruston.

SANCTIONS ON CUBA

16 Latin Nations Near Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixteen American nations neared agreement Friday night on action to impose a diplomatic and trade embargo on Cuba and to warn the Castro regime it faces a possible armed attack if it continues subversive aggression.

The action is contained in a resolution expected to be voted upon by the inter-American foreign ministers conference here Saturday.

Proposed by Panama, Costa Rica and Colombia, the resolution was under study Friday night by a conference working committee of 15 nations excluding the four that have diplomatic ties with Havana—Mexico, Chile, Uruguay and Bolivia.

The resolution, still subject to change at another closed-door session Saturday morning, condemns Cuba for its subversive efforts to overthrow the government of Venezuela and resolves that the governments of the American states:

1. Will not maintain diplomatic nor consular relations with Cuba.
2. Will interrupt all trade, direct or indirect, with Cuba, with the exception of foodstuffs, medicines and medical equipment.

Negro Youths Raid City Park; Injure 2 Whites

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — One man suffered a fractured skull and another was less seriously injured Friday when nine Negro teen-agers invaded a city park where an integrated track meet was in progress.

Police said the Negroes, six of them swinging baseball bats, raced through Lykins Park striking men and several youngsters and then left on a bus.

All of the youths were arrested later on the bus. Lykins Park is in a white neighborhood in the northeast part of the city. Contestants from Dunbar Park, a team composed mostly of Negro youths, went to Lykins for a dual meet.

Retired Judge Dies; Rites At Rayville Today

RAYVILLE (Special) — Funeral services for Carey J. Ellis, 75, retired judge of the Fifth Judicial District, will be held at 10 a.m. today at St. David's Episcopal Church here with the Rev. R. H. Goodman officiating. Burial will be in Rayville Masonic Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

Pallbearers will be Lasley Richardson, Robert Calvert, James Craig, Bernard Waite, Sam Fragala, J. B. Thompson, Kyle Mills and Foster Jones Jr. Honorary pallbearers will be the board of directors of the Richland State Bank and members of the Fifth District Bar Association.

Mr. Ellis died late Thursday at his home here. A native of Winnsboro, he served on the bench of the Fifth Judicial District from 1930 until 1954 when he retired. He was also district attorney of the district from 1916 until becoming judge, except for two years during World War I.

Since Judge Ellis' retirement from his judicial post, he had been associated with the legal firm of Ellis and Ellis.

He served as president of the Richland State Bank from 1928 until 1949 and since had been chairman of the board.

Judge Ellis received an engineering degree from the University of the South and his law degree from Tulane.

He was a member of the Fifth District Bar Association, Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity and St. David's Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Margaret A. Fannett Ellis, Rayville; a son, Carey J. Ellis Jr., Rayville; two daughters, Mrs. William M. Green, Rayville, and Mrs. Harry Brian, Alexandria; one sister, Mrs. Wallace Atchinson, Summit, Miss.; and seven grandchildren.

KHRUSHCHEV RETURNS
WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Premier Khrushchev flew back to the Soviet Union today after a two-day visit to Warsaw for the celebration of the 20th anniversary of Poland's Communist regime.

Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka kissed the Soviet leader three times on the cheeks at the airport but there were no farewell speeches.

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht and Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny also attended the anniversary celebration.

I sincerely solicit your vote and support for School Board Member from Ward 6 of Ouachita Parish.

IN MISSISSIPPI

King Still Working On Demo Delegates

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King headed here Friday for a first-hand observation of the place where the three missing civil rights workers disappeared almost five weeks ago.

Dr. King has been in Mississippi since Tuesday drumming up support of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, which hopes to unseat regular state party machinery at the national convention.

The three workers, Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, both white and of New York, and James Chaney, a Meridian Negro, have been the object of a federal, state and county search since their disappearance.

About 400 sailors from nearby Naval Auxiliary Air Station at Meridian have been combing without success the hilly and swampy area for a trace of the three.

King included Meridian for a rally stop on his tour, having been in Jackson after jaunts to Vicksburg and Greenwood.

In other racial developments: The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed a suit in federal court seeking to force a white restaurant to accept Negro customers.

The Primos restaurant suit actually was an amendment to an earlier action but came under the new civil rights act.

Negroes Robert L. T. Smith, J. C. Sutton and John Hardy Jr. of Jackson complained they were turned away from a Primos restaurant by an armed guard July 14.

The three ministers said the guard told them they would not be allowed to enter or discuss the matter with the manager.

The suit, one of the first filed in this state under the new law, said it was "well established" Primos policy to refuse service to Negroes.

They asked a speedy hearing on a request the Primos restaurant chain in Jackson be ordered to halt any policy of barring Negroes.

Almost simultaneously, the Justice Department filed suit against the vote registrar of Holmes County, Henry McClellan, charging Negroes should be registered without discrimination.

The suit said the county had 8,757 Negroes and 4,733 whites of voting age, but only 4,000 whites and 40 Negroes were registered voters.

The Justice Department suit asked a three-judge court to hear its petition for an injunction under terms of the new civil rights act and for a hearing Aug. 7 to force McClellan to make registration records available.

The petition charged McClellan with refusal to permit registration, affording uneven opportunities for whites and Negroes, delays in the receiving applications from Negroes and subjecting Negroes to unreasonable questions and similar acts.

In Greenwood, authorities investigated the beating of a 20-year-old television engineer-animator by three masked men who broke into WABG-TV Thursday night.

Olin Higgs said the three, wearing masks and gloves, beat him while he was on duty at the station, but he was not seriously hurt.

Higgs said their disguise prohibited him from determining whether they were white or Negro.

Station News Director Calton Crowell said the station had not editorialized or taken any stand on civil rights.

The station did, however, carry a network interview with a Negro, Silas McGhee, who said three men kept him from attending a movie in Greenwood July 15.

The theater had been admitting Negroes since the civil rights bill was signed. The FBI arrested the alleged three under the new act and charged them with conspiracy against McGhee.

In Biloxi, U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox continued until Aug. 15 motions to remand to state court the cases of five civil rights workers.

He also continued until the same date a petition of three Louisiana lawyers who sought admission to the bar to defend three of the civil rights workers.

The cases involve defendants Steve Miller, San Francisco; Barry Goldstein, East Meadow, N.Y.; and David Cleveland, Chicago, arrested at a demonstration in Gulfport; and J. C. Biggs and Willie Reese, both of Moss Point, arrested on traffic violations.

Mills R. Douglas, Robert F. Collins and Lois E. Elie are the attorneys petitioning for admission to the bar.

In Laurel, Marcia Ann Moore, 21, white civil rights worker, moved to appeal her July 6 city court conviction on a charge of vagrancy.

She applied for and got an appeal bond. The Ft. Dodge, Iowa, girl pleaded guilty to the vagrancy charge and drew a suspended sentence.

In Hattiesburg, a double case of assault and battery charges resulted in a white civil rights

IN ST. AUGUSTINE

Fire Bomb Hits Beseiged Motel

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The special state police force cracked down on the Ku Klux Klan on Friday after a fire bomb was thrown into a plush motel that had integrated temporarily.

Warrants were sworn out against five men charging them with burning a cross on private property without permission. One of them was also charged with wearing a hood that covered his face, a violation of a state law.

The warrants were the first to be sworn out against leaders of the Klan movement since this city's racial turmoil started two months ago.

Hours before the warrants were sworn out by the special police force, a gallon jug of inflammable liquid was tossed through a window of the Monson Motor Lodge dining room, then ignited by two Molotov cocktails made with soft drink bottles.

No one was in the restaurant when the first bomb went off about 3 a.m.

State Atty. Gen. James Kynes rushed to the city and pledged that law and order would be enforced under the governor's emergency powers.

The warrants, signed by County Court Judge Charles Mathis Jr., specifically charged four men with placing a burning cross or causing it to be placed on the property of City Baking Co. without written permission from the owner.

Those named were J. B. Stoner, Atlanta, Ga., an attorney for the Ku Klux Klan; Connie Lynch, San Bernardino, Calif., an avid segregationist who says he is a minister; Paul Cochran, identified by the state attorney as a KKK leader in Jacksonville; and Bill Coleman, a St. Augustine man the state attorney said was a KKK leader.

Cochran also was charged with wearing a hood. Barton Griffin, identified by the state attorney as a Jacksonville Klansman, Stoner and Lynch were also charged with actually burning the cross.

Bond on each charge was set at $500.

All charges are misdemeanors, punishable by fines up to $500 and 90 days in jail. Kynes said Roy Liston, president of City Baking Co., declared he had not given permission to anyone to hold meetings on his property.

The fire bomb was the latest outbreak of violence since white segregationists began picketing business that had at first agreed to serve Negroes under the Civil Rights act.

"The containers reeked of kerosene," said manager James Brock, who has been caught in the middle of the long battle between whites and Negroes in the nation's oldest city.

He estimated damage at $3,000, mostly from smoke.

Two hours after the fire bombing, two white men were stopped by city police and arrested on charges of possessing concealed weapons and possessing pornographic materials.

"They are being questioned about the arson," Kynes said, "but no charges have been filed in that connection." He said federal authorities also were talking to the pair, William Stuart Williamson, 33, of Ocala, and Robert Edward Leonard, 22, St. Augustine.

Brock who once poured acid into the motel swimming pool in an effort to clear it of Negro demonstrators, integrated the Monson after passage of the civil rights bill.

A few days later, however, he said he was forced to stop serving Negroes by threats and demonstrations by white segregationists, who never have relaxed their efforts to keep the races apart.

RE-ELECT C. E. Buckley
No. 20
Ouachita Parish School Board
July 25

As a member of the Ouachita Parish School Board in Ward 3 I am asking your support to elect me for a third term in this worthy office. I am running on my record of accomplishments and ask that all voters of Ward 3 cast your vote for me, on Saturday, July 25. I want to help continue our great program to provide the greatest educational advantages in Ouachita Parish and Ward 3.

I am proud of the fact I could help initiate the present educational program and am now asking that the voters allow me to complete this program for the benefit of our children.

Remember, all the qualified Democratic voters of Ward 3, whether you live within or outside the city limits of Monroe, can vote for C. E. Buckley, No. 20 on the ballot, as a member of the Ouachita Parish School Board, on July 25th. I earnestly solicit your vote and support.

British Sailors Given Extra Pay For Rumless Sail

LONDON (AP)—British Navy ratings serving aboard the multinational force destroyer USS Biddle are getting daily compensation because they draw no rum ration, John Hay, under-secretary for the Navy, told Parliament.

Because U.S. navy ships are dry, the British seamen are getting an extra threepence—about 3.5 cents—a day, a defense Ministry spokesman said.

The normal rum ration, he explained, is one-eighth of a pint a day diluted in a quart of water and issued as grog.

WARD FIVE

QUALIFICATIONS: Doctor of Medicine and fully-trained Psychiatrist. Formerly Director of three different State Guidance Centers, Consultant to an Orphanage, and Clinical Director of a School for Retarded Children.

Personal experience as a teacher on three different levels of education. For the past four years Special Consultant to L.T.I., Northeast Special Education Center, Dept. of Child Welfare, and Vocational Rehabilitation.

PLATFORM: To help the Schools, teachers, parents and children with some of the problems which so far have hardly been acknowledged by the present School Board: school failures and dropouts, behavior problems, reasonable control over extra-curricular activities, over-load of responsibilities on teachers with out corresponding authority or corresponding pay.

To give whatever guidance and advice I can in these matters, and to assist in all others for which my experience has prepared me.
